ELLEN ANDERSON

Community rallies around girl who lost leg

by DIANE GRANAT

It sometimes takes a tragedy to create a community. This is the case in Vernon Township, where residents have gathered together to help a young Prairie View girl who was the victim of a vicious hit-and-run incident last August.

On Dec. 11 local citizens will show how much they care as they raise money to help defray the medical expenses for 14-year-old Ellen Anderson, who lost her right leg when a hit-and-run driver struck her bicycle near U.S. Rte. 45 and Port Clinton Road near Half Day.

Some residents say they have pitched in to help the Anderson family because they are neighbors. Many who are raising funds through bake sales and pancake breakfasts do not even know Ellen, but they think about what it would be like if it had been their own daughter.

IT WAS THE horror many residents felt when they heard about the sickening circumstances of the accident that motivated them to help.

The accident happened early in the evening Aug. 19. Ellen was riding down Rte. 45 near her home when she saw a car coming. When Ellen directed her bicycle away from the road the driver veered towards her. The car then ran over her, made a U-turn and came back and ran over her again.

No arrests have been made and there are no strong leads to answer the question: who was the driver?

The only evidence police have is a description of the car: it apparently was a light green 1974 to 1976 Mercury Montego with a missing parking light lens and damage to the grill work.

"Somebody out there knows. Somebody ran over her," said Sgt. Emerson Krapf, a Lake County Sheriff's investigator in charge of the case.

The community, however, did not wait a minute. "This family was silently suffering, not only from the injury to their daughter, but also from the medical expenses,' said Justin Fishbein, a Vernon Lions Club member helping organize the Dec. 11 Ellen Anderson Day.

ELLEN HAS GONE through four operations since the accident. Injuries to her right leg and hip forced the amputation of her leg four inches below the hip.

Ellen is home after a two-month stay in the hospital and is making progress, her father, David Anderson, said. Anderson takes Ellen to Highland Park Hospital for therapy every day and in January she will be fitted for an artificial leg at the Chicago Rehabilitation Institute.

Medical costs for Ellen have exceeded $30,000 and continue to grow. Insurance benefits for Ellen amount to $8,000 with the possibility of another $10,000 from the state. David Anderson earns $12,000 a year as a Vernon Township highway commissioner. There are six children in the family.

The residents of Vernon Township responded to this need by setting up the Ellen Anderson Fund, which is being handled by the First National Bank of Lincolnshire. The fund has more than $16,000. A day-long event is set for Dec. 11 at Stevenson High School, Ill Rte. 22, Prairie View, where Ellen would have been a fresh-

Hearings slated on construction of underpass

Construction of the Arlington Heights Road underpass downtown at the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks could begin next summer with public hearings on the $5.7 million project planned for January or February, Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said Tuesday.

Engineering plans and an environmental impact study for the underpass were submitted to the state, Hanson said.

Financing, which already has been approved, calls for the federal government to pay about $4 million with the state and village each paying $850,000 and the railway company paying $50,000. The village will use motor fuel tax funds to pay its share.

"The only thing that could possibly thwart its start now would be the acquisition of right-of-way," he said. The project, which has been discussed for nearly 20 years, will take about two years to complete, Hanson said.

THE WORK WILL require the relocation of the Hill-Behan Lumber Co. and several businesses along Northwest Highway, between Arlington Heights Road and Pine Street, Hanson said.

The right-of-way acquisition could be hurried if the state gets involved, he said.

The removal of the lumber company will be one of the first steps because the railway tracks will have to be on that property during digging of the underpass.

During construction of the underpass, southbound traffic on Arlington Heights Road will be rerouted to the Evergreen Avenue railway crossing and northbound traffic will be detoured to the crossing at McKinley Street, which has not been completed.

The Evergreen Avenue railroad crossing will be eliminated when the project is completed, Hanson said.

Parks officials vote 4-year terms

Arlington Heights park commissioners have voted to reduce park board terms to four years, but rejected a proposal to increase the oard to seven members.

There are five board members serving staggered two-, four-and six-year terms. However, if the length of terms had not been changed, members would have been elected for six years next April because of a 1975 change in the state park district code.

Terms of three commissioners, Robert P. Rohleder, Robert J. Throckmorton and Parks Pres. Lloyd W. Meyer will expire in April. None has made a decision whether to run for election next year.

PARKS ATTY. CHARLES K. Bobinette said as a result of Monday's vote commissioners will be elected in April to one 2-year and two 4-year terms.

That will stagger terms so three will expire in 1979 and two in 1981. In the future all terms will be four years.

Comr. Kathryn Graham cast the only minority vote in each decision. She said a six-year term is needed to create more experienced board members. "If someone is going to move before the term expires they're just as likely to move before four years are up than six."

She said a seven-member board would have brought more variety and expertise to the park district.

COMR. JACQUELINE J. Gruenewald disagreed. "I think you have an easier time getting a totally dedicated person with a four-year term. You might still scare off some talented person if you ask them to plan their future six years in advance."

Meyer, Throckmorton and Rohleder were unavailable for comment.

Filing for the April elections begins Jan. 10.

CAROLYN GARREAU, 6, of Schaumburg, is assisted in exercise by her grandmother Hazel Feirick, Rolling Meadows. Carolyn's leg was broken in an automobile accident which killed her parents Oct. 10, and injured her 8-year-old brother Scott.

Hard to give thanks with no mom, dad

by JOHN LAMPINEN

Scott and Carolyn have always spent Thanksgiving with Grandma and Grandpa Garreau.

The youngsters will see them again this year, but it will not be the family affair it has been in the past.

Mom and Dad won't be there.

The two children will spend "a quiet Thanksgiving" with their other grandparents, Richard and Hazel Feirick, Rolling Meadows, and then go in the evening to the Garreau's Hoffman Estates' home for a weekend stay.

MRS. FEIRICK CONCEDED that it will be difficult to find much to e thankful for after the Oct. 10 auto accident that claimed the lives of Scott and Carolyn's parents, Wayne and Midge Garreau of Schaumburg.

But Thanksgiving still has a special meaning this year, she added.

"At least we're grateful that the kids will be all right," she said. "And I thank God that there are people that help out in time of need."

The response of the public has been "tremendous" since the accident, observed Mrs. Feirick, 2306 Kirchoff Rd.

A Margaret E. Garreau Memorial Fund was established at the Bank of Rolling Meadows, 3250 Kirchoff Rd., and residents from throughout the Northwest suburbs have donated more than $3,000, which will be used to feed and clothe the youngsters.

MRS. FEIRICK recounted several other attempts to help Scott, 8, and Carolyn, 6:

- A class at a Schaumburg school sent a mass of get-well cards to the two youngsters.
- Two children, roughly the same age as Scott and Carolyn, volunteered to donate $5 of their own money.
- A Girl Scout troop in Rolling Meadows, which had saved $50 for an outing, decided instead to donate the money to the children.

"Boy, people are sure wonderful," Mrs. Feirick said. "I never

Tax cut? Maybe—Honeymoon? You bet!

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Assured by even Republican legislators of a "long, long honeymoon' with Congress, President-elect Jimmy Carter said Tuesday it would be a mistake to assume he has already decided to seek a tax cut.

Carter told a news conference during his seven-hour series of meetings with congressional leaders that his major legislative goals early next year will be reducing unemployment and reorganizing the government.

"It would be a mistake to presuppose there will be a tax cut," Carter said. He said that while a tax cut is possible, he will first have to see what the economic indicators are at the time he takes office.

CARTER FLEW BACK to his home in Plains, Ga. in early evening, carrying with him a briefing book the thickness of two big city telephone directories which he said he planned to study on "quiet days" Wednesday and Thursday.

Carter mentioned during his first post-election news conference Nov. 4 that a prompt tax cut might be needed if the economy were still in a slump in January. but he said Tuesday: "There has been an excessive assumption by the press that I have made a decision on a tax cut."

Chairman Al Ullman of the tax-writing House Ways & Means Committee, sitting next to Carter, said later: "He feels, as I do, that there are other options that might be more effective (than a tax cut)."

Carter also said he has set a goal of reducing the current 7.9 per cent unemployment rate by 1.5 per cent by the end of his first year in office.

He emphasized the fact that this goal, accompanied by another target of a 6 per cent growth in the nation's economy by the end of 1977, had been accepted by Arthur Burns, the fiscally conservative chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, as reasonable and attainable. Carter and Burns met Monday.

CARTER TOLD Senate and House leaders that he would consult with Congress early in the formulation of any major legislation and said "there have been serious mistakes under Republican and Democratic presidents in the past because of the absence of this kind of discussion."

The first Democratic president-elect in eight years also met with Republican leaders and Sen. Robert Girffin, the possible new Senate GOP leader, said "he can expect cooperation from us."

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., said "I am looking forward to a long, long honeymoon" between the White House and Congress.

Carter said his series of closed door meetings throughout the Capitol building were "a demonstration to the country and to other nations that there is a compatibility between myself and President Ford's administration on the one hand and with the leaders of Congress on the other."

He promised to consult with Senate and House committee chairmen on cabinet appointments and said "it will be two or three weeks before I make very many announcements. There may be one or two between now and then."

CARTER ALSO pledged, after stating his determination to propose a government reorganization plan early in the year and to "minimize the number of staff members in the White House. The number will be substantially below that of past years."

Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said Carter told a closed-door lunch with House leaders that "one of his top priorities was getting a mandate from Congress to submit a program of reorganization of the government."

Ullman said: "There are a lot of people in this town who say (reorganization) can't be done. I think Jimmy Carter has the great advantage of not knowing that it can't be done. God Bless him. I'm going to help him."

Carter specifically sought out individual meetings with Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., chairmen respectively to the Senate and House Government Operations Committee which have jurisdiction over reorganization legislation.

Carter also told the news conference he may hold "frequent fireside chats," a reference to the radio broadcasts by President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, to keep the public informed of his thinking on major issues after he takes office.

'We thought it was a kitten'

Baby boy found in collection bin

SOUTHGATE, Mich. (UPI) — Salvation Army workers tossing discarded items from a collection bin into their truck Tuesday heaved a stuffed grocery bag into the air. Then they heard a squeal.

"We thought it was a kitten," said Lehr Barkenquest, 64, one of three men working on the truck. "The other guys handed the bag to me and I opened it, and this baby was staring right at me."

The throwaway "gift" to the Salvation Army was an abandoned newborn boy wearing underclothing and wrapped in a thin blanket. Authorities said the baby had survived a night of subfreezing temperatures under a pile of donated goods in the shopping center bin.

"IT WAS TRYING to cry," Barkenquest said. "It was moving both its feet and curled up a little bit. I couldn't believe what I saw."

It was the second such discovery in southeast Michigan in three days.

A couple walking past a locked laundry room at a University of Michigan apartment complex in Ann Arbor Sunday heard a baby crying. Police found an infant boy wrapped in a towel and a tablecloth on a shelf.

The latest foundling in this Detroit suburb was rushed to Wyandotte General Hospital, where it was reported in fair condition in the pediatrics ward.

"THE EXTREMITIES are a little red, but the determination of whether the child had frostbite will have to wait a couple of days," hospital spokesman Bob Chandler said. "Right now, we have him in an incubator to thaw him out and let him warm up."

Det. John Henry said there was no note or other clue to indicate the baby's identity. He said the police can do little more than wait for someone to step forward.

"We don't have a thing to go on, and we're looking for any helping hand we can get," Henry said. "There is somebody out there who knows who this baby is. I just hope sympathy starts working on somebody."

Henry estimated the infant had been in the collection bin for at least a day. He said clothing and other items piled on top of the paper bag probably saved the boy from fatal exposure.

ICC delays ruling on C&NW fare hike

The Illinois Commerce Commission Tuesday granted a request to delay until the first of the year a ruling on the Chicago and North Western Transportation Company's petition for a 15 per cent increase in its commuter fares. Christopher Mills, an attorney for the railroad, said company officials were "hopeful" that negotiation of a Regional Transportation Authority, subsidy will make the proposed fare raise unnecessary. It was the second time within a month the ICC granted a request by the railroad to delay the fare increase. The ICC granted a 30-day delay on its ruling on Oct. 28. The new one-month ruling extension will last until Dec. 31. If a purchase-of-service agreement with the RTA is reached, the rate will not increase.

Police arrest Breuer in Florida

For Lauderdale, Fla. police Tuesday night arrested a 22-year-old Palatine man charged with attempted murder, and who last week jumped bail. Police said Mark Breuer, 915 Countryside Dr., was apprehended in the Florida city at 9 p.m. Chicago time Tuesday. A $1 million bond forfeiture warrant was put out for Breuer's arrest after he disappeared last week and failed to appear Thursday in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court. Breuer had been released on $150,000 bail after he was charged with shooting up his apartment and firing his shotgun at two Palatine policemen Oct. 20. Palatine police said Breuer likely will waive his right to an extradition hearing. A Palatine police officer will be sent to Florida to bring Breuer back by his next court date, Dec. 16 in Arlington Heights.

Asylum asked for two Chinese

The Rev. Paul D. Lindstrom, director of the "Remember the Pueblo Committee," and Philip E. Bennett, associate director of the committee, both of Prospect Heights, have asked the United States Embassy in Mexico City for political asylum for two Chinese Communist officials. The Chinese, both in Mexico, were identified by Lindstrom only as associates of ousted Vice Premier Chang Chun Chiao, but said the officials have information on "several hundred" United States prisoners of war captured in Laos and North Vietnam and allegedly being held in China.

A DAY OF HAPPINESS united Zygmunt Bejnarowicz and his son, Wojiech, 6, at their northwest Chicago home. Bejnarowicz flew to London last week and abducted his son from his ex-wife, who had spirited Wojiech out of the country against court orders, and who had hidden the youth from his father for 5½ years. Zygmunt hired four detectives and spent $30,000 to find his son.

Father, son reunion ends long odyssey

by DAVE IBATA

A spectacular international odyssey has ended for a 6-year-old boy, who spent Tuesday with his father at their northwest Chicago home after 5½ years of separation.

Wojiech Bejnarowicz last saw his father, Zygmunt, in May 1971 in London when judges ordered his mother, Margaret, to surrender the boy to her former husband.

The following day, Mrs. Bejnarowicz and Wojiech disappeared, and the father began a relentless, 5½-year search over four continents that cost $30,000 before he caught up with his former wife on a crowded London street last week.

BEJNAROWICZ, a Park Ridge dental surgeon, and four private detectives he hired snatched Wojiech away from his ex-wife outside her London flat, spiriting him off to a Brighton hotel, then to Paris and then the United States.

In Brighton, a resort city on Britain's channel coast, Bejnarowicz spent the first night introducing himself to his son. When abducted by his father, Wojiech was wearing ragged clothes. He never had attended school and was taught by his mother that his name was Andrew Kitton, Bejnarowicz said.

"The very first night he started calling me Daddy," Bejnarowicz said.

His father tucked Wojiech into bed and told him a bedtime story. "Ever since then he's wanted me to tell this story over and over," Bejmarowicz said.

FATHER AND SON returned home Sunday to a two-story house at 7730 W. Peterson Ave., Chicago, where Bejnarowicz lives with his parents, Joseph and Helen Bejnarowicz, and sister Elwina.

Young Wojiech came home to a house filled with toys — trucks, stuffed animals and a bicycle. "We accumulated them over a period of time, because we never gave up hope he'd be back," Bejnarowicz said.

Wojiech "was virtually a prisoner" with his mother, Bejnarowicz explained. "But he's really getting out of his shell now."

"NOW HE'S PULLING our house apart," Bejnarowicz said, and grinned. "He rides his bicycle through the kitchen, he took all his toys and put them by his bedside. He's interested in absolutely everything."

Wojiech, however, still prefers to speak Polish, although he understands English, his father said.

The 45-year-old father understands the hardship his son experienced. Bejnarowicz spent several years of his childhood in exile with his family in Siberia, where vengeful Russians deported them in 1940. The Soviets had imprisoned Bejnarowicz's father in a concentration camp during the war.

WOJIECH'S MOTHER allegedly had donned disguises, forged passports and hid in Britain and possibly Canada to keep a step ahead of her former husband and the American and British courts that had awarded custody of their child to Bejnarowicz.

Bejnarowicz still fears his former wife may hire her own agents to kidnap their son, and he is considering hiring a bodyguard to accompany Wojiech to school.

"What you see is a happy ending," Bejnarowicz said. "But the misery I had to go through was terrible.

Files list Hoover in homosexual rumors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Dept. late Tuesday released censored summaries of 164 confidential files of late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover that hinted at intriguing reading.

The official summaries consisted of a few lines describing contents of the file folders. But names and other details were blanked out.

One undeleted name was Hoover's own. The array of files contained many accusations that prominent men were homosexuals — and Hoover's name was mentioned often.

The files also covered a full range of scandals. One 67-page file on a period from 1958-65 bore this description:

"CONTAINS ALMOST entirely letters to Hoover from . . . Washington field office containing general immoral or criminal activities on the part of diplomats, government employes, politicians, sport figures, socially prominent persons, senators and congressmen."

The summaries of the massive "official and confidential" files Hoover kept in his office were drafted by FBI agents in February 1975 shortly after Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi took office.

Levi used them to prepare himself for testifying before the House Judiciary subcommittee on constitutional rights.

The files were made public because of a suit under the Freedom of Information Act by Morton Halperin, former National Security Council staff member whose own telephone was tapped by the FBI.

Halperin first sought the files themselves but later agreed to accept the summaries. Before releasing them the FBI deleted almost all names.

THE RESULT is decades of history — of race relations in cities, of alleged homosexuality with denials, subversive activities, and top secret intelligence — with almost all names and virtually all details deleted.

Hoover's files were jammed with accusations politically or socially prominent men were homosexuals. Several files, accordng to the summaries, also concerned "gossip . . . to the effect Mr. Hoover was a homosexual."

A 1941 file dealt with "a continuous whispering campaign against Mr. Hoover." One memo, the summary said, names "at least 23 people who are reportedly involved in a smear campaign . . . Some are identified as Congressmen."

It also shows a prospective Democratic presidential candidate in 1940 had income tax troubles and this, the summary said, "could result in his downfall as far as his becoming a candidate."

THE SUMMARIES also show Hoover more than once resisted efforts of other officials to have access to the files.

Former CIA Director Richard Helms "desired to discuss broadening operations particularly of the very confidential type," one summary said, but Hoover was "not enthusiastic. . . in view of hazards involved."

In 1940, Hoover refused to investigate the late Wendell L. Wilkie, the Republican presidential nominee, because "the FBI would be accused of conducting a political investigation."

A 6,250-page file labeled "Prominent persons" consists of "seven volumes of summaries recording telephone converstaion of — and —, a prominent D.C. lawyer at the request of —"

would have believed this, that people would be so nice and open their hearts to kids they don't even know."

The Feiricks, who have taken custody of the children since they were orphaned, bought a stack of "thank you" cards and using addresses on checks that have been received, have tried to acknowledge all the contributions.

"We've been trying to keep up with them," Mrs. Feirick said. "I'm sure we missed some."

MEANWHILE, SCOTT, who broke his leg in the crash, has begun school at Kimball Hill School, Rolling Meadows. It has been good for him, Mrs. Feirick observed, even though he has the typical schoolboy's attitude about it.

"He still doesn't like school," she said, "but it's something for him to look forward to every day."

CAROLYN, WHO suffered a broken leg and internal injuries in the crash, has been released from Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

Every two hours Mrs. Feirick or her husband get Carolyn out of bed for a brief exercise period in her walker.

Mrs. Feirick said she doesn't know how long Carolyn must wear a body cast. The girl is being helped by a tutor, and the Feiricks hope she will begin school in February.

In addition to the donations, money raised through the sale of some of the Garreau's furniture is going toward the memorial fund.

A garage sale is to be conducted next spring to liquidate the rest of the property.

FOR THE FEIRICKS, it has been a difficult period, but Mrs. Feirick said that having the children has helped get them through it.

"I have been so busy and I have devoted so much time to the children," she said, "that I really haven't had time to think about my daughter.

"I'm trying to raise them like she would."

man this year.

THE HEARTWARMING response of local residents is "doing as much for the community as it is for Ellen," said Fishbein.

"We have a lot of little communities, many unincorporated around a hollow core," Fishbein said. "Before, our only common interest was the high school and the library."

"We represent homeowners, ex-urbanites — people who are so busy doing things they have little time to think about someone in the community who needs our help," Fishbein said. "Inter-community cooperation and good will" is what this is all about,he said.

Andersen said he thinks his neighbors have been "tremendous. I never knew there were that many people who could band together to help and I've lived here all my life," he said.

Krapf also thinks it's great the way people have pitched in. He has only one wish, though: "I'd just like them to pitch me a few more clues."

Malraux won world fame in three separate careers: as the author of such novels as "Man's Fate" and "Man's Hope," as a flier on the Republican side in the Spanish Civil War and a French resistance leader in World War II, and as de Gaulle's minister of culture. Nominated for the "newcomer of the year" month, were Jodie Foster, 13-year-old star of "Taxi Driver" and "Bugsy Malone," Penny Marshall of "Laverne and Shirley" and Lindsay z"bionic Woman" Wagner. Nominated for male star of the year were Sir Laurence Olivier, Dick Van Dyke, and John Wayne.

• Elvis Presley's security guards said Tuesday that entertainer Jerry Lee Lewis came to Presley's mansion in Memphis twice in the night, armed with a loaded pistol, demanding to see Presley. Presley was awakened before dawn Tuesday and told of the disturbance, but he refused to see Lewis, who said earlier he resents favorable publicity given Presley. Lee was arrested for the second time in two days. His latest arrest was for carrying a pistol and public drunkenness.

A TEARFUL BUT happy reunion after 26 years of separation was held in Galesburg this week by two sisters and the parents of another sister. From left are: Pamela Sloat of Vernon, a sister; Lena Cadwell and the Rev. Glenn Cadwell (behind sofa) of Monmouth, parents of sister Glenda Sue Pack of Marshallville, Ohio, not present; Ruth Ann Cole of Galesburg, a sister, and Leonard Cole; Charles Sloat and Gena Sloat, age 7. A brother, James Eugene Thomas of Longview, Tex., was located and talked by phone with the sisters. All plan to be together for Christmas. A breakup of the family and adoption of the children caused the separation in 1950.

'Modest' pay hike needed: Thompson

James R. Thompson Tuesday said he thinks state legislators and officials, including himself, should receive modest pay increases. "I don't think anybody should have to make a financial sacrifice year after year because he chooses to serve the public," the former U.S. attorney said during a talk show on radio station WIND. Thompson said the governor's salary of $50,000 a year has not been increased since 1972 and, if the current session of the legislature does not approve a pay raise, it will be 1978 before the salary can be increased.

He noted the $50,000 governor's salary does not have the same buying power now that it did in 1972 because of the increased cost of living. He said he supports a modest pay increase for state legislators, but is against a proposal now in the legislature that would increase their salaries from $20,000 to $35,000 a year. "That's far too high, that's crazy," Thompson said.

Lottery drawing day early

The Illinois State Lottery's drawing will be held today instead of Thursday this week because of Thanksgiving, lottery officials announced Tuesday.The lottery's bonanza competition also will be held Wednesday with the 10 qualifiers having the chance to double the top single prizes of $200,000 and $30,000 and three prizes of $7,500.

Budget chief Schaeffer resigns

Illinois Budget Director Leonard Schaeffer announced Tuesday he is resigning effective Dec. 1. Gov. Daniel Walker appointed deputy budget director Richard Bratton to fill Schaeffer's post. Gov.-elect James Thompson already has announced he will appoint Deputy Comptroller Robert Mandeville as his budget director when he takes office Jan. 10. Schaeffer, 31, became director of the bureau in June 1975, and presided over preparation and implementation of the fiscal 1976 budget. He earlier served as deputy director of the Illinois Dept. of Mental Health and Development Disabilities.

Trooper stops auto, shot in arm

Illinois State Police trooper Carl L. Kobler, 30, was shot in the arm Tuesday after he stopped a car for a traffic violation in northern McDonnough County. Two unidentified persons, a man and a woman, were later arrested. Kobler was listed in fair condition at McDonough County Hospital in Macomb, a hospital spokesman said.

Kobler stopped the car on Walnut Grove Road, just north of Ill. Rte. 9 in Bushnell for a traffic violation, a state police spokesman said. Several shots were fired from the car as the trooper approached it, and Kobler was hit in the right arm. The car sped away when Kobler returned the fire, the spokesman said, but it was stopped by a state trooper about 10 minutes later northeast of Walnut Grove and the occupants taken into custody.

Chicago parking rates may go up

Chicago is considering raising downtown parking garage fees to discourage all-day parkers and to encourage more commuters to use public transportation, officials said. Lewis W. Hill, commissioner of development and planning, said increased parking fees are part of a plan to construct park-and-ride garages at Chicago Transit Authority depots no closer than North Avenue on the north, Roosevelt Road on the south and Halstead Street on the west.

Heavy holiday traffic predicted

The Illinois Toll Highway Authority has warned motorists to get off to an early start over the Thanksgiving Day holiday because traffic will be at its peak on the tollways. "Drivers who are meeting flights at O'Hare Airport are advised to allow additional time because of heavy traffic," a statement said.

From noon today until Monday morning will be the peak travel period. "Last year, 1½ million vehicles used the Illinois tollway system during the Thanksgiving weekend with no fatal accidents," said Richard E. Blakley, executive director. "We hope to maintain our fine safety record during this holiday period."

Radiation traces found in snow

Small amounts of radiation were found in snow samples collected in northern Illinois during the weekend, the Public Health Dept. reported Tuesday. David Ed, head of the department's environmental surveillance, division of nuclear safety, said "very, very minute amounts of radioactivity" were found in the samples. He said they posed no threat to life. "Just enough to identify but not enough to quantify," Ed said. He said the department is running more tests to determine whether the radioactivity came from the Chinese nuclear test last week or from some other source.

Chicago clinic still giving shots

Swine flu report spurs queries

by KURT BAER

The illness of a Concorda, Mo. man was "partially" confirmed Tuesday as the nation's first case of swine flu since February, sparking renewed interest in the government's vaccination program.

Four other Concordia residents showed similar symptons but tests have not confirmed whether they contracted the disease.

Northwest suburban hospitals and health officials reported an above average number of telephone calls from persons who wanted to get a vaccination shot.

Federal health officials ordered an emergency shipment of 1.2 million doses of vaccine to Missouri, where a swine flu case was suspected.

"IDENTIFICATION OF the Concordia case through blood samples is partial confirmation that this is swine flu, but there has been no virus isolation and no evidence so far of other cases of the swine flu strain," Stafford Smith of the Center for Disease Control at Atlanta said.

The blood samples were taken from a telephone lineman who last month apparently suffered from the upper respiratory disease. Concordia is a town of 1,800, 65 miles east of Kansas City.

The lineman's possible swine flu case is the first to surface since February when 12 cases and one death occurred at Ft. Dix, N.J. But officials cautioned about speculation of a possible epidemic now.

There are no more swine flu vaccination clinics planned in the Northwest suburbs and shots are not available at the area's hospitals.

"WE DON'T PLAN any more clinics and we've received no notice of any 'mop up' clinic in the area," said Arlington Heights Health Director George Weinand. "We're advising people who want a shot to go to one of the clinics still operating in Chicago, or they can call the Cook County Health Dept. in Des Plaines for more information," he said. The number is 298-5800.

"A lot of people are calling and they are very disappinted they missed the clinics," Weinand said. He said vaccinations will be given in Chicago from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the following locations:

The Pittsfield Building, 55 E. Washington St., today; the 625 N. Michigan Avenue Building, today; the Insurance Exchange Building, 179 W. Jackson St., today; the Equitable Building, 40 N. Michigan Ave., through Friday; the John Hancock Center, 875 N. Michigan Ave., through Friday; and Sears Tower, through Nov. 29.

Ann Finney, spokeswoman at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, said the hospital has received telephone calls about the swine flu program ever since clinics closed in the Northwest suburbs earlier this month.

MANY OF THE callers want to know about flu shots for children, she said. The only shots available for persons under 18 are for high-risk children with a chronic illness, who must get two shots. However the dates are past for the first shot, given in the Northwest suburbs at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines, and Northwest Community.

"We are getting a few extra calls about the vaccinations today," Kathy Brezinski, spokeswoman at Lutheran General Hospital, said Tuesday. The hospital has a tape recorded message at 696-6840, explaining that it does not have swine flu vaccine.

An emergency shipment of vaccine, including 870,000 doses of monovalent vaccine for the average person and 350,000 of bivalent vaccine for the elderly and high risk cases, is expected to arrive in Missouri today.

In addition, 49 jet injector guns were being sent to the state to aid in the massive immunization.

Only 17.6 per cent of Missouri's 3.2 million residents eligible for swine flu shots have been immunized, a state health official reported.

Bomb threat at restaurant forces Hearst to go home

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst, venturing into public for the first time since her release on bail, fled the Top of the Mark cocktail lounge because of a bomb threat from a man who claimed to belong to the Symbionese Liberation Army, police disclosed Tuesday.

Miss Hearst's attorney, Albert Johnson, said the newspaper heiress, accompanied by him and bodyguards, went across the street from her parents' apartment atop Nob Hill Monday night to the Mark Hopkins Hotel, where the penthouse bar with its famed view of San Francisco is located.

AS THEY SAT in the lounge for an after-dinner drink, the Mark Hopkins began receiving anonymous telephone calls from a man who threatened to set off a bomb in the hotel. He said he belonged to the terrorist SLA that kidnaped Miss Hearst, 22, from her Berkeley, Calif., apartment in 1974.

Miss Hearst was released on $1.5 million bail Friday pending appeal of her conviction for robbing a bank with the SLA 10 weeks after her abduction. She has been cooperating with the government in providing information about her former underground associates.

After the third call to the hotel she fled back to her parents' apartment.

Hotel switchboard operator Elsa Maldonado said the first call, apparently from someone who had been following Hearst, came at 10:35 p.m. when Miss Hearst and her party already were in the Top of the Mark.

The operator told police the caller phoned back about five minutes later.

WHILE POLICE were questioning that operator about 11 p.m., the man called once more.

Patrolmen went to the Top of the Mark and escorted the Hearst party back to the family apartment.

After a fourth call from the man, the hotel was searched for a bomb but none was found.

Jet crashes in Greece; all 50 aboard killed

SALONICA, Greece (UPI) — An Olympic Airways airliner trying to land in heavy fog crashed into a mountainside in northern Greece Tuesday, killing all 46 passengers and 4 crewmembers.

An airline spokesman said an American couple he could identify only as Mr. and Mrs. Jack Campbell were among six foreigners who died. The spokesman said the Campbells worked for the Del Monte canning company at Larissa, Greece.

Police at Kozani, near the scene of the accident, said rescue teams that reached the wreckage at an altitude of 4,500 feet found no survivors.

"They were able to recover all 50 bodies, all of them burned," he said. "Two of them were recognizable."

OLYMPIC AIRWAYS said the airliner — a Japanese built Nihon twin-turboprop YS-11 — took off from Athens at 8:35 a.m. on a flight to Kozani, 200 miles northwest of the capital with a stopover at Larissa.

When the plane reached Larissa the control tower informed the pilot the airport was closed because of poor visibility.

At the Kozani airport a spokesman said that minutes before the crash the pilot reported: "I am 15 miles from Kozani and I cannot land because it is too foggy."

"Those were his last words," the spokesman said.

The plane carried fuel for four hours flying and had been in the air for 1 hour and 10 minutes when the accident occurred. The pilot, Constantine Skiadis, had logged 8,960 flying hours and his copilot Nikos Tarnaris 6,000.

Dist. 23 ballots available Monday

Absentee ballots for the Dec. 11 Prospect Heights Dist. 23 referendum will be available beginning Monday.

Residents unable to get to the polls Dec. 11 can pick up absentee ballots between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays, from Monday through Dec. 9, at the district's administration building, 700 Schoenbeck Rd., Prospect Heights.

All absentee ballots must be returned to the administration building by 4 p.m. Dec. 9.

The referendum will be from noon until 7 p.m. Dec. 11 at Sullivan School, 700 Schoenbeck Rd., Prospect Heights. Voters must be at least 18 years old, have lived in the district at least 28 days and be a registered voter.

PASSAGE OF THE referendum would allow the board of education to increase the tax rate in the education fund from $1.60 per $100 equalized assessed valuation, where it has been since 1964, to $2.20 per $100.

The 60-cent increase in the education fund tax rate would be levied gradually over six years, Business Mgr. James Hendren said. The overall tax rate would not increase from $2.51 per $100 equalized assessed valuation because the tax rate in the bond and interest fund would drop as bonds are retired and as the board raised the education fund rate, he said.

Drastic program and staff cuts and substantial increases in class size will be unavoidable if voters do not approve the referendum, Gerald McGovern, assistant superintendent, said.

Faced with a projected $278,000 deficit and having already borrowed as much as legally allowed, administrators are preparing to make at least a $200,000 cutack for 1977-78 if the referendum fails, McGovern said.

Passage of the referendum will not be a panacea for the financial problems plaguing the district for the past decade, but will buy the district time until changes in state formulas or reductions in inflationary costs offer additional hope, he said.

Flood maps public hearing Dec. 7

Revised flood insurance maps for the Village of Arlington Heights will be discussed at a public meeting at 8 p.m. Dec. 7 at the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

The revised maps change the village's status from "emergency phase" to "regular phase," meaning the price of flood insurance for Arlington Heights residents will depend on "flood risk" of their property, Village Engineer Allen J. Sander said.

Previously, the rates were the same for all residents, if they chose to purchase flood insurance, he said.

Residents most directly affected by the flood insurance maps live in the Salt Creek, Buffalo Creek and McDonald Creek areas, Sander said.

Representatives of the U. S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development and the Illinois Dept. of Natural Resources will attend the meeting to answer residents' questions, he said.

Local servicemen report for duty

AN ISRAELI SOLDIER with machinegun at ready watches over frontier along the Israeli-Lebanese border. Troops are alert for any move by hostile forces.

Lebanon issue puts Israel on guard

Commanders of the Syrian-dominated Arab peacekeeping force met Tuesday to discuss stationing Arab troops in southern Lebanon, despite Israel's warnings against such a move. Foreign Ministry sources said officials had received reports that Israel was "preparing for some kind of hostile action against Lebanon."

Israel has described its positioning of additional troops, tanks and heavy equipment along the frontier as "part of a series of precautionary measures to prevent Syrian and other Arab forces from changing the military balance in south Lebanon." Col. Ahmed Al Hajj, military commander of the peacekeeping force, met with his officers "to consolidate the new positions of his troops and prepare for the stationing of the Arab force in other areas."

In Washington, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger urged restraint on all sides in response to Israeli concerns about a possible buildup of hostile forces. Kissinger met over breakfast with Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz, who warned Tel Aviv could not accept a return to pre-civil war conditions when Lebanese territory along Israel's northern boundary was used to launch guerrilla attacks into Israel.

Britain offers Rhodesia date

Britain Tuesday offered militant Rhodesian nationalists a firm independence date of March 1, 1978 in an effort to move the month-old peace talks off dead center. Ivor Richard, British chairman of the Rhodesia peace conference, made the proposal in a 35-minute meeting with hardline nationalist leaders Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo, partners in a "Patriotic Front."

The two have blocked negotiations on the concrete issues of black majority rule by insisting Britain set a firm independence date before discussion of other issues. The nationalists insisted on independence by Dec. 1, 1977, but indicated some slippage would be acceptable. "March 1, 1978, now remains fixed as a ceiling date for completion of the legal process and for independence," an official of the "Patriotic Front" told UPI.

Spain train wreck kills 14

A Spanish train Tuesday hit a 20-ton trailer truck loaded with steel bars at a grade crossing near Masalfasar and jumped the track, plowing through parts of the local railway station. Police said 14 persons were killed and 21 injured, some of them critically. The driver of the truck escaped with bruises. Police said the three-coach electric train was en route from Barcelona to Valencia. Police said the dead included the engineer and a police inspector traveling on the train. Almost all the victims appeared to have been passengers, they said.

Truth unit for murder probe

The House assassination committee's staff will include a "truth and evaluation department" to check testimony with lie dector and voice stress tests, staff director Richard Sprague said Tuesday. The truth unit will include two expert operators of polygraph systems and two voice "stress evaluators," Sprague told reporters at a breakfast meeting. He said both techniques could prove "most helpful."

Sprague said a "bare bones" staff of 170 persons will be needed to help two subcommittees investigate the slayings of President John Kennedy in 1963 and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in 1968. It may take up to two years to complete the probe and come up with the most definitive findings possible, he said.

Muskie for Sec. of State?

Associates of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said Tuesday the senator has talked about the possibility of being named secretary of state, but an aide to the Maine Democrat said it was only "idle speculation." Muskie was duck hunting in Maryland and could not be reached to comment on an exclusive story in the Boston Herald-American saying he appeared to be the frontrunner among secretary of state canidates Jimmy Carter was considering. Muskie press secretary Robert Rose said it was too early to speculate on the appointment.

Legion health probe hit

The state health department was accused Tuesday of failing to undertake "appropriate investigative measures" after it was notified of medical suspicions about the early stages of the 'Legionnaires' Disease' outbreak last summer. The mysterious respiratory illness struck hard with brief but deadly impact, killing 29 persons and causing 151 others to become ill. The accusation against the health department was leveled by Allegheny County Coroner Dr. Cyril H. Wecht at a congressional subcommittee hearing. The hearing is looking for clues to the cause of the outbreak which exacted its toll mainly among delegates and guests at a state American Legion convention at the Bellevue Stratford hotel July 21-24.

Suburbs' funds for water to help pay city services?

by KURT BAER
A news analysis

Suburban residents could wind up paying for Chicago city services under Mayor Richard J. Daley's plan to raise the city's water rates.

The possibility stems from a charge by independent Chicago Ald. Martin Oberman that the proposed 21 per cent hike in water rates is really a hidden tax increase that will be used to pay for a variety of city services.

Because the new rates will be passed on to suburbs who buy water from Chicago, suburban residents could find themselves involuntarily subsidizing the cost of Chicago government if Oberman's accusation is true.

DES PLAINES now buys its water from Chicago and eight other Northwest suburbs, members of SHARE + 3, are considering plans estimated to cost $42 million to $62 million to bring Chicago water to the area in five years.

More than 70 suburbs buy water from the city. By law, they pay the same rate as Chicago water users.

The strongest reaction to the water rate controversy, being debated in the Chicago city council's finance committee, came from Niles Mayor Nicholas Blase.

Blase said Tuesday he will discuss filing a class action lawsuit against Chicago to get lower water rates for suburban purchasers. He said he proposed the suit at a meeting in December with representatives from 39 other suburbs that now buy Chicago water and took part in an April 1975 study to determine whether the suburbs were being charged properly.

BLASE SAID THE lawsuit will charge that the suburbs are unfairly being asked to pay for maintaining Chicago's sewer system, 30,000 fire plugs, and the free water given to hospitals and other institutions in the city.

"We should not be paying for things that are solely beneficial to the people of Chicago. We should be paying only for the water that comes from Lake Michigan and is purified and comes to the suburbs," Blase said.

The idea for the suit was prompted, he said, by Daley's rate hike proposal and Oberman's charge that $13 million of the additional $15 million a year the new rates would raise will be used for nonwater department expenses.

Oberman said that $4.7 million of the $15 million will be used for a pension fund for water department employes and that $8.2 million will be used to pay for other city services.

"I believe the suburbs, and the whole metropolitan area, should support Chicago government," he said.

"But if you're going to do that it should be a straightforward manner such as a commuter tax."

TV networks eyed for antitrust lawsuit by FCC

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Saying "serious" antitrust issues have been raised, the Justice Dept. asked the Federal Communications Commission Tuesday to consider forcing the major networks to sell some or all of the television stations they own and operate.

The department also urged the FCC to launch a major investigation into the way the three big TV networks control the programming of their affiliate stations.

The proposals were made in comments on a complaint by the Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. that the major networks have increased their share of broadcast programming and revenues at the expense of affiliated stations.

Spokesmen for the three network television stations in Chicago either declined to comment or disputed the Justice Dept. complaint.

"THIS IS A corporate legal problem and the New York office said they will refrain from comment until they have fully reviewed the Justice Dept. complaint," said a spokesman for WLS-TV, the ABC owned and operated station in Chicago.

A spokesman for WBBM-TV, the CBS affiliate here quoted John Schneider, president of the CBS Broadcast Group, saying, "Just as we maintained the Westinghouse petition contained allegations totally without merit, we regard the position of the Justice Dept. to be without merit," Schneider said.

A spokesman for WMAQ-TV, the NBC affiliate, said the network would have no immediate comment on the action.

The Justice Dept. said it "agrees that the great economic power possessed by national television networks may have substantially eroded the ability of (affiliates) to exercise genuine independence in programming decisions."

The department said Westinghouse data indicate the networks have "substantially increased their share of broadcasting revenues and significantly enlarged the proportion of broadcast programming that is network originated."

"SHOULD (the Westinghouse) allegations be borne out, they would raise serious issues both as a matter of communications policy and of antitrust policy," the department said.

"Accordingly, the department supports the request that the commission undertake a broad investigation into the network structure, power, and affiliate relationship with view to identifying problems that are susceptible to solution by rulemaking."

The department said the issues at stake warrant its call for the FCC to launch the "first comprehensive inquiry into network television since the 'Barrow report' of the 1950s."

Westinghouse petitioned for FCC action on behalf of a group of stations it owns and operates. The FCC asked the Justice Dept. and other interested agencies and groups to file comments.

The Justice Dept. disagreed with Westinghouse, however, over what the FCC should do.

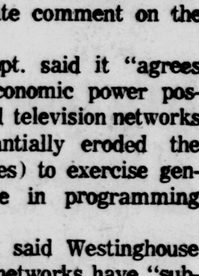
A Hi-fi Villain



by Ed Landwehr

Picking up outside signals of radio, TV, hams is perhaps the most disturbing thing that can happen to hours at Landwehr's TV & Appliance Center, 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., the trouble is easy to find, usually being loose or poor connections in the set. But sometimes a situation can be baffling.

On one case in which a hi-fi set picked up radio signals, we spent hours at Landwehr's TV & appliance center, 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights tightening connections, rechecking circuits and the final idea of wrapping some lead wires with tinfoil solved the problem. The radio signals disappeared.

Actually engineers call the working out of this kind of a problem a phenomenon because nobody agrees on the theory of the correction. But whatever the reason, it solved the trouble.

FAA rules worth cost

At a cost of $5.5 billion to $7.9 billion, the price of muffling this nation's jet airliners is, pardon the pun, sky high.

But if the money will do what the Federal Aviation Administration says it will do, cut by one-half the level of jet noise we live with today, the dollars will be well spent.

The FAA proposes to order the nation's air lines to "retrofit" 1,648 jets with new, quieter engines or to replace the planes altogether.

One-half the planes are to be quieter within four years, with the remainder of the work to be finished by 1985. In all, 80 per cent of the nation's current fleet of commercial jets will be affected.

Undoubtedly the air traveling public will be asked to pay all or part of the multi-billion dollar tab in the form of a proposed 2 per cent ticket surcharge or some similar fee. Ways to finance the program will be discussed at a hearing on Dec. 1.

We in the Northwest suburbs know as well as anyone how jet noise from O'Hare Airport invades our daily lives. It penetrates the walls of our homes and apartments, shatters our sleep and, some experts have said, can even make us physically ill.

All of this is what Transportation Sec. William Coleman properly called an "unacceptable intrusion upon the lives of some six million Americans."

Like other measures to improve our environment, quieter planes will cost us money. Clear air, clean lakes and rivers and quiet skies — once nature's free gift to man, today carry astounding price tags.

But there is a cost attached to not acting, too. It may be less obvious and more diffused, but the toll taken by jet aircraft noise in this area is no less real. The bill is rung up in depreciated residential property values and shattered nerves.

We hope the FAA will follow through with its plans to make the neighborhoods around O'Hare and other U.S. airports a little more livable. If that means a few extra dollars to all of us who enjoy the benefits of the air travel, so be it.

Will Rosalynn pick an old dress?

Amid the weighty and important news on the presidential transition involving foreign policy and the economy, an item came out of Washington D.C. last week that may be the true indication that the Carter administration will be unique.

Rosalynn Carter is considering wearing a six-year-old dress to the Inaugural Ball.

Mrs. Carter's press secretary said Mrs. Carter (Should we call her the first lady-elect?) is leaning toward wearing the same gown she wore for her husband's inaugural as Georgia governor in 1971 for the festivities on Jan. 20.

The report has displeased fashion experts, who understandably want the first lady to buy something new in the hope that women all over the country will follow suit . . . er, dress.

We suspect that if Rosalynn does choose the old dress, the protests from the fashion industry will rival those that greeted first lady Jacqueline Kennedy's decision in the early 1960's not to wear hats.

Nevertheless, we hope Mrs. Carter will do whatever she wants about that dress. Thousands of women around the country know there is nothing dishonorable about wearing a formal gown that's a few years old.

Besides, a touch of down-home simplicity lik that would be the crowning blow to the "imperial presidency."

Election losses continued by GOP wishful thinking

by ARNOLD SAWISLAK
A commentary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is a word for people who indulge in wishful thinking in politics — losers.

Another word that seems to mean the same thing is Republicans.

Republicans say a majority of Americans subscribe to the basic principles of their party. They point to poll after poll showing that most Americans consider themselves to be conservative or moderates leaning toward conservatism.

And they conclude: "We've got the people on our side. Now all we need is the candidates." Or the organization. Or the campaign funds. Or the public relations.

The Republicans have been kidding themselves. Even when they have had attractive candidates, efficient campaign organizations, abundant funds and friendly publicity, they continue to lose elections. They obviously don't have the people.

The record is this: The Congress has been controlled by Democrats with only two brief exceptions for more than 40 years. Democrats have won seven of the last 11 presidential elections. More than two-thirds of the governors now are Democrats. Democrats control both houses of the legislature in 36 states.

Republican wishful thinking stems from the general theory that the GOP is the political home of conservatives in this country. Just as the Democrats tend to take liberal support for granted, the Republicans assume they are going to get the votes of people on the ideological right.

But it seems quite clear now that many Americans who regard themselves as moderate or conservative do not identify with the Republican Party. Instead, they call themselves "independents" and they vote for Democrats who seem to be in the middle of the road.

Why have the Republicans failed to win these votes? Their own research in the past three years tells them some of the answers. GOP polls show that the party has a "country club" image, the reputation of representing people who "have it made."

But much of the "conservative majority" the GOP feels should support it does not fit that image. It is the wage earning middle class, blue collar as well as white, believers in the idea that people must work to survive.

These people dislike those who would rather live off the labor of others than work themselves, but that includes the idle rich as well as welfare chiselers. They often know, from bitter experience or close personal observation, that not everyone who is out of work or collecting welfare is lazy and dishonest.

It is in this regard that Republicans, especially in the heat of campaigns, often make problems for themselves. They let themselves be pictured as hostile to everyone who hasn't succeeded, as the champions of wealth and privilege.

When Republican orators denounce welfare cheating, they seldom stress that the majority of people on public assistance are truly in need and unable to provide for themselves. George Wallace almost always made that distinction, but it is hard to recall a Republican politician who has done so recently.

When Republicans talk about consumer protection, they usually focus on the majority of businesses that sell safe products, give honest service and do not lie in their advertising. This often is followed by dire warnings against crippling regulation of business, and suggestions that Americans are smart enough to protect themselves in the marketplace.

These two examples are generalizations, but they occur often enough to make ammunition for Democrats against Republicans. They do not explain all the reasons the Republicans are losing, but they illustrate at least one area in which the GOP hurts itself.

Reader likes ideas of 'spanking judge'

Thursday morning, Nov. 18, after getting four of our five children off to school, I sat down to "wake up" with my morning coffee and The Herald. My eyes opened wide and interest piqued when I read the article "Advice from the spanking judge, parents have got to get into the act."

The two problems that have bothered me most in recent years were contained in the newsprint.

I strongly believe that apathetic parents and unfairness of judgment in the courts play a major role for the mess our society is in.

Restructuring of the judicial system, judges being accountable to someone and parents being forced to become responsible for the lives they have created would go a long way in correcting the situation in my estimation and until these two blights are improved we are all forced to live with the consequences. I'm unhappy about this. What about you?

I say three cheers for Judge William E. Obermiller. It's a start in the right direction.

Patrols 'vigilant, not vigilantes'

While reading The Herald article on the CB patrolers, I spotted the word in the caption entitled "Vigilantes." Since the word has many connotations, I read further with increasing interest. The special teams which have been formed to assist the Mount Prospect Police Dept. deserve our recognition and thanks. With crime on the upsweep in all suburban communities, any effort towards crime prevention must be given a fair chance.

As a person identified as Unit 11 said "but if we can deter crime in the village, it will also help me (unincorporated Cook County area). Crime is not limited to the Village of Mount Prospect." Recently we have been asked to review a proposed agreement between the Village of Mount Prospect and the Cook County Sheriff's Police Dept. called the "exchange services program." Any exchange of services, whether they be fire, police or administrative, should certainly be given a chance to succeed or fail.

While watching the actions of the members of the Mount Prospect special team, one should keep in mind that these individuals are not vigilantes but vigilant. They remain watchful, awake and on the alert; attentive to discover and avoid danger, and to provide for safety for our residents. A familiar Latin saying could best be applied to these volunteers: Vigilantibus et Non Dormientibus Jura Subveniunt, which translated means the law aids those who are vigilant, not those who sleep upon their rights. Keep it up fellows, you are doing a good job and we thank you.

'Foster home grant still needs support'

The Northwest Municipal Conference and Shelter, Inc. are aware of the recent articles in your paper regarding a proposed group foster home for male teenagers. The articles have implied that the funds have been granted and that the facility is a foregone conclusion. This thinking is erroneous.

The Chicago-Cook County Criminal Justice Commission, a local/regional approving body, has approved the grant proposal. This proposal must now be approved by the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission at its mid-January meeting. Competition for the grant is heavy, and many similar proposals are under consideration.

Every effort is being made to secure the grant, thereby insuring the facility. However, it must be pointed out that nothing is certain. The grant applicants remain thoroughly committed to the proposal, and, hopefully, a group facility will result from their concern for the youth in the community.

Allen Yasgur, ACSW

An opposing view on branch banking

I noted with interest the debate on branch banking in The Herald. Contrary to the statements made by Mr. Abboud of First National of Chicago, I have found less competition and fewer special services in areas where branch banking is permitted.

In Trenton, N.J., where my son resides, two banks control all the branches in the area. They have a "take it or leave it attitude," make no effort to get to know their customers and do not provide complimentary services such as notorizing signatures. They do not compete. I have experienced the same thing in Montreal, Canada.

I have reservations about one of our local banks, but that does not bother me. I can utilize one of several independent banks conveniently located in the area. I would much prefer to keep it this way.

Soviets face showdown

Brezhnev eyes Carter, Hua with uncertainty

by NEA/London Economist News Service

Standing on Lenin's tomb recently, counting the record number of portraits of himself carried in the Soviet Union's 59th birthday parade, Leonid Brezhnev also had to contemplate the thought of two virtually unknown quantities in the capitals of the two powers that loom largest in his view: Jimmy Carter and Hua Kuo Feng.

After his heavy investment in Richard Nixon and Henry Kissinger, and the long estrangement from the China of Mao and Chou, Brezhnev must find the two new faces in Washington and Peking both pretty inscrutable.

The Russians have switched off their diatribes against China since Mao died and instead laid down a propaganda barrage of appeals for reconciliation. Whoever Hua may be, he does not have 50 years of stored-up grievances against the Russians as Mao did; so they are naturally anxious to give him a chance to kiss and make up while he is still new enough in office to be not too heavily committed to specific policy positions.

FOR THE FIRST time in a decade, the keynote speech during the Soviet anniversary rites, delivered on Nov. 5, included no attack on China and did not provoke a walkout of Chinese diplomats. In sorrow, not anger, the Chinese-Soviet rift was described as "unjustifiable and unnatural."

Two days later this restraint seemed to earn a reward in the shape of a ritual message of greetings from the Chinese government which, unlike the equivalent 1975 message, did not make it a precondition for improved relations that there should be "practical steps" towards solving the Chinese-Soviet frontier dispute. But next day China's chief representative at the United Nations denounced Russia as the world's most dangerous source of war, and the Peking news agency described dominated Eastern Europe as "a colonial empire."

So far, the suspension of Soviet invective against China has brought no corresponding gesture from Peking. Indeed, China's denunciation of Russia at the UN was judged to be the fiercest such attack since Mao's death.

BREZHNEV HAS more information about Carter than he has about Hua; but he must be aware how misleading this information could be. Carter seemed at one point during the election campaign, to have told the Russians that they could invade Yugoslavia without fear of an American reaction; but he has since taken pains to make it clear that they could not. He accused President Ford and Kissinger of letting Russia monopolize the benefits of detente; but he has not explained what he would do to rectify this.

He was encouragingly ambiguous, from Russia's point of view, about his attitude to the prospect of Communists in a future Italian government. He talked tough about the Arabs, stressed America's "total commitment" to Israel, and backed the Soviet Jews' demands for the right to emigrate to the extent of telegraphing a message of support to their leaders in Moscow, an action that has evoked a Soviet retort.

Brezhnev can hardly assume that a Carter administration's policies will strictly follow the lines apparently laid out during the campaign. There is no foreign policy option that Carter has not kept as wide open as he possibly could.

For the time being, Brezhnev must live with the thought that the intentions of both Carter and Hua remain "a riddle wrapped in a mystery inside an enigma"; not a happy reversal of roles for a Soviet ruler on the eve of his 71st year.

Low prices key to Butera profits

by LEA TONKIN

Paul Butera sits at a cluttered round table, listening to wholesalers' telephone calls and fielding staff questions.

A truckload of turkeys from Minnesota is late. Butera isn't happy with the supplier. Advertisements will be in the newspapers and customers will be looking for the birds at bargain prices. "I need five loads by Tuesday or Wednesday," Butera tells the supplier on the line. Although his orders are placed well in advance, he must sweat out the inevitable problems of stocking nine food stores.

As the president of Butera Finer Foods, Butera has come a long way from the times when he delivered groceries in a small wagon. But the challenges remain, 20 years later, for the 33-year-old grocer.

BUTERA DESCRIBES himself as an aggressive independent. He has no delusions about gravy days in the grocery business. Changing consumer demands, the closings by Chicago area retailers, including the National chain, and price wars will continue, he says.

PAUL BUTERA

Although he thinks new store development will eventually swing from suburbia to the city, Butera has a heavy investment in the Northwest suburban market. He had been satisfied to remain in the city until three years ago. Then Butera took a look at the suburban market and decided to expand.

In addition to three Chicago stores, Butera has outlets in Schaumburg, Hanover Park, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Addison and Niles. A Nov. 30 opening is planned at a new Rolling Meadows store. A Butera store will open during January in Buffalo Grove. Butera makes his headquarters at 4635 N. Elston Ave., Chicago.

SEVERAL OF Butera's store are former chain store outlets. There's no secret to success in a store left behind by a National or an A&P, Butera said. "In each one I have more than doubled the sales volume of the previous store," he said. At the same time, expenses have been pared. A fresh coat of paint and renovating costs of $40,000, for example, are inexpensive compared with a new building's cost.

Butera's stores are generally smaller than the massive 36,000-square-foot operations run by some chain stores. This means higher profits on sales per square foot, he says of his 22,000 to 23,000-square-foot stores.

A "back to basics" philosophy will pay off for the independent store owner because customers appreciate good value for their money, Butera said. "When a woman comes into my store, she's not looking for an electric blanket."

Butera believes he can cut costs to consumers by personally taking jobs assigned to armies of purchasing agents and other staffers at some food retailing companies. Together with his brother, Joseph, Butera tackles advertising, store planning and buying. His firm is a member of the Certified Grocers cooperative purchasing organization.

THE VETERAN retailer said consumers have a right to expect good quality and price in their food purchases. Butera said consumers sometimes pass by the less expensive cuts of meat and cheaper frozen meats.

Butera predicts food prices in the suburbs will eventually match price levels in the city as the "over-stored" suburban market loses its appeal to store planners. A 1 to 2 per cent difference in profits can mean $50,000 a year per store, he said.

Butera, who arrived in the United States from his native Italy 20 years ago, said he looks forward to continued improvement and possible expansion of his business.

"I'm no different from anybody else," he said. "I just spend my money wisely."

UAW panel OKs accord with GM

The General Motors Council of the United Auto Workers Union Tuesday overwhelmingly approved the new three-year agreement reached with the No. 1 automaker last week after a 12-hour strike at selected plants. The agreement was approved by 493 council members with only seven dissenting votes. The union's 390,000 rank-and-file GM workers will vote on ratification in two weeks.

Coal-stoked power cheaper: group

Atomic reactors must shut down so often for maintenance or repairs that coal-generated electricity is up to 20 per cent cheaper than nuclear power in most parts of the nation, a public interest group said Tuesday. The private, nonprofit Council on Economic Priorities said atomic power plants can compete economically with coal only in the Northeast. In a report billed as the first comprehensive comparison of reliability and cost between coal and nuclear power, the council said atomic plants have proven so uneconomical that more attention should be given to energy alternatives previously downgraded as too expensive. The 214-page report, titled "Power Plant Performance," said nuclear plants under 800 megawatts operated at only an average 64 per cent capacity from 1968 through 1975. Plants over 1,000 megawatts, it said, averaged 51 per cent. By contrast, it said, coal-fired plants operate at 60 to 70 per cent and therefore can produce electricity up to 20 per cent more economically. An official with the Atomic Industrial Forum, the nuclear industry trade association, disagreed with the report's findings. He said an AIF survey completed in September found on a national average that nuclear generating costs were 18 per cent lower than those for coal plants.

CB radio buyers warned

The Federal Tade Commission issued a "consumer alert" Tuesday to warn Christmas shoppers to be careful about buying citizens' Band radio equipment. The reason for the caution, the agency said, is that on Jan. 1 the number of CB channels will increase by government to 40, compared to 23 at present, but all sets now for sale recive only 23 channels. The result, according to the FTC, is that some consumers could wind up buying a set that can't be converted to 40-channel reception next year, or even if it can be changed, may discover they have to shell out additional cash to get the change made.

Ford to end gas price controls?

The administration, noting prices are holding below federal ceilings, is planning to abolish gasoline price controls on President Ford's final day in office, the Los Angeles Times reported Tuesday. The Times quoted Frank Zarb, head of the Federal Energy Administration, as saying the administration has begun work to present such a proposal when Congress reconvenes Jan. 4. By law, the price controls will be repealed unless Congress acts to disapprove within 15 days — making the deadline Jan. 19, the day before Jimmy Carter will be sworn in as president. "Our preliminary evidence indicates that there will be no adverse effect on price or supply," Zarb told the Times, and decontrol will "restore some measure of competition back into the system."

I-H, machinists reach accord

Tentative settlement of a machinist strike in Louisville, Ky., Tuesday was expected to mean the full return to work of 40,500 United Auto Workers members who walked out of International Harvester plants and installations during contract negotiations last Thursday. Negotiators reached final agreement on the UAW-IH contract Friday and locals in 10 states ratified the pact during the weekend. Production of farm equipment and heavy trucks resumed Monday at all I-H plants, according to company official William Greenhill, except at the Louisville plant where 240 machinists set up picket lines seeking the same language in their contract that the UAW members got.

OPEC delays price-fixing meeting

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has postponed its price-fixing meeting in Qatar from Dec. 15 to Dec. 20, Sheikh Mana Al Otaiba, Oil Minister of the United Arab Emirates, told the Algerian News Agency Tuesday. Otaiba spoke outside a meeting of the Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries in Kuwait, a smaller group comprised of OPEC's Arab members which convened Tuesday. He gave no explanation for the postponement, but OPEC officials said earlier they were considering the change "for purely technical reasons."

Tips in shopping for mutual funds

Speaking dollar-wise

by Robert S. Rosefsky

A few weeks ago I noted that a technical change in the federal tax laws would result in a deluge of mutual funds offering tax-exempt opportunities. Well, break out the sandbags, folks, the flood is cresting early. Financial pages are beginning to burgeon with ads for these funds and salesmen are polishing their pitches.

Some specific shopping tips are in order:

• Compare the costs of being involved in these funds. Some may charge initial loading fees, or sales commissions, ranging to upwards of 4.75 per cent of your investment. Others may not have any such charge. Compare also the redemption charges, if any, as well as monthly maintenance charges. You may have to do some reading between the lines. One fund's press release informed me that there was no "monthly maintenance charges to investors." But their prospectus states there will be "a monthly management fee at the rate of six-tenths of 1 per cent of the average daily value of the fund's net assets." These fees will be deducted before payment of dividends to investors. In other words, thee is no maintenance fee charged directly to each investor, but there is a management fee charged against the total kitty. Call it what they will, it still is a charge.

Charges, of course, are to be expected. The funds certainly are entitled to be compensated for managing your money. The point is to know just what you're paying.

• How will the money be invested? The main purpose of these funds is to buy IOUs issued by cities and other local governmental units. The interest paid on such IOUs is exempt from federal income taxes. Thus you, the investor, do not have to pay federal income taxes on these earnings. But the quality of those municipal IOUs can differ considerably.

The higher the quality, the safer the return and the lower the return. And vice versa. Some funds may concentrate on the higher quality issues. Some may go for the lower rated issues and offer a higher rate of return; as well as a higher degree of risk. Each prospectus should divulge what percentage of its assets will be invested in what kind of bonds. Study this aspect with great care.

• What about other privileges? Some funds may allow you to switch your investment into other kinds of funds under the same management, perhaps without paying the customary commission. Other privileges may include check-writing against your account.

• What is the minimum initial investment? What is the minimum on subsequent investment?

• Management expertise is very important. Municipal bonds are a strange beast, unlike other forms of investment. The experience, or lack thereof, by fund management in this field may make a difference in performance.

• Size of the fund can be important. Bigger funds can have more buying clout and may be able to get better deals.

• Don't make snap decisions. Study and compare. It'll still be there tomorrow or next week.

Stock prices drop 6 pts. amid fears of oil hike

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices retreated Tuesday in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange in the light of uncertainties about international oil prices and some grim predictions for the auto and steel industries.

Investors also showed some concern that New York City wouldn't resolve its financial problems as easily as some officials had predicted following a court decision that shattered its 1975 rescut plan.

As a result, the Dow Jones industrial average, a 7.07-point winner Monday, lost 6.57 to 949.30. Analysts said the closely watched average was susceptible to profit taking because of last week's 21.11-point gain.

ON A BROADER scale, the NYSE common stock index lost 0.28 to 54.69 and the average price of a common share decreased by 17 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, which includes some over-the-counter stocks, shed 0.63 to 101.96.

Market breadth figures reflected investor uncertainty. Of the 1,885 issues crossing the tape, 738 declined, 676 advanced and 471 remained unchanged.

Volume totaled 19,090,000 shares, down from the 20,930,000 traded Monday. The NYSE high-speed transaction tape ran five minutes late in the first 15 minutes of trading, but the pace slackened as the day wore on.

Although the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries reportedly delayed to Dec. 20 from Dec. 15 its scheduled meeting, analysts said investors were disturbed by reports Iraqi representatives insisted on a 25 per cent hike in crude oil prices. The West has warned a sharp increase would trigger worldwide inflation.

AMERICAN BROADCASTING, the Big Board's most active issue, fell 2-5/8 to 37¼ on 251,900 shares after the U.S. Justice Dept. recommended the Federal Communications Commission study the possibility of making networks spinoff some or all of the stations they own. CBS lost 1-5/8 to 54½ and RCA, parent of NBC, 5/8 to 25.

American Home Products was the second most active Big Board issue, off ¾ to 30-1/8 on 214,600 shares. Texaco followed, off 3/8 to 26 on 179,300 shares.

Prices closed lower in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share decreased by two cents. Volume totaled 2,330,000 shares, the same amount as traded Monday.

Over$3000.* Interest PLUS A Magic Chef Microwave Oven.

They're Both Yours...When You Open a $10,000, 4-Year Savings Certificate at Melrose Savings!

ms

Here's the fastest, easiest cooking you've ever known! Touch control programming in a solid-state microwave oven... to start dinner, stop it and keep it warm... all by memory. It's Magic Chef...the microwave oven that's truly automatic. You don't even have to be there! Its "brain" remembers three things at once—without resetting—and nearly ten ways to cook—even how to saute and soften! And, best of all, it's quick and easy to use—you just tell it what to do. Manufacturer's suggested list price on this super Magic Chef microwave-with-a-memory is $539.95.

1. To take advantage of our Microwave Oven offer, here's all you do:

2. Deposit $10,000 or more in a new 4-year, 7½% savings certificate.

3. In compliance with federal regulations, in the event of early withdrawal, Melrose Savings will pay interest at the rate earned on a regular passbook savings less 3 months' interest and less a pro-rata share of the cost of the Microwave Oven.

4. For federal income tax purposes, Melrose Savings will send an interest statement equivalent to 7½% per annum each year until the certificate matures.
*Projected earnings when all funds remain on deposit till maturity.

5. Melrose Savings reserves the right to withdraw this offer at any time without notice.

Please allow 2-4 weeks for delivery to your home. Offer includes tax and freight charges.

The manufacturer will supply standard warranties to depositors. Melrose Savings makes no warranty of merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose or any other warranty, expressed or implied, with respect to the Microwave Oven. Melrose Savings and its employees will have no liability to customer or to any other person for any damages, direct, consequential or otherwise with respect to or in any way arising from any defect in the microwave oven.

Crib death

A time when parents need reassurance

by ELEANOR RIVES

The room was strained to hurting silence as she talked.

Once again Irene Moriarty, pastoral counselor from the Loyola SIDS (Sudden Infant Death Syndrome) Regional Center, was speaking in controlled tones to clergymen, lay workers, police and fire department officials — this time at Alexian Brothers Medical Center — trying to impart to them the unspeakable agony of parents who have lost their babies to what is labeled "crib death."

"I suppose if the infant died in a bed, people would call it 'bed death,' or in a buggy, 'buggy death,' " she said. "When SIDS was first recorded in the Bible, it was called 'overlaying' the child, presuming the mother had rolled over in her sleep and suffocated her baby."

Since that historical time, SIDS has been blamed on many things, all equally horrendous to the grief-stricken parents — on lack of breast feeding, on birth control pills, on changes in the environment, on water fluoridation, on smoking, on suffocation in bedclothes, on neglected illness, on aspiration, on regurgitation.

PRIOR TO October, 1974, it was illegal to put SIDS on an infant's death certificate. Such words as "cardiac arrest," "suffocation," "interstitial pneumonitis" were used instead.

Sudden infant death is none of these things. It is unpredictable and unpreventable. Even a physician can't help. It is the sudden, unexpected death of a normal, healthy baby.

The infant may have a slight cold or the sniffles. He does not cry out. By the time he is found, he is cold and turning blue. And death occurs only during periods of sleep.

"Right now there is nothing we can do to help the babies," said Irene. "But there is much we can do to help the families. We must reach out to the parents during the initial grief period, in the early hours after the death — they can't reach out to us. We must convince them that the death was not their fault.

"Parents are so willing to accept the blame for these deaths that some never resolve the conflict within themselves — they live with guilt all their lives. There are couples today still living with the guilt of years ago when SIDS was not yet identified as a disease," she continued.

A CERTAIN AMOUNT of unusual behavior during the grief period is normal, according to Dr. Frederick Mandell, co-director of the regional SIDS center in Boston. Family members may hallucinate that a baby is crying; a family member may sit in a rocking chair with folded arms as though rocking a baby.

Ms. Moriarty cited case after case of extreme behavior, of marital complications, even broken marriages, following the trauma of SIDS.

In one case, a woman's ex-husband believed she had killed the baby. Another woman refused ever to go back in her bedroom. Another cut off all contact with friends, would not allow a sleeping baby in her house. In another case, the husband left home for a few months. A teenage sister may become panicked at the idea of motherhood.

"A marriage already in trouble may be completely destroyed by a SIDS death," said Ms. Moriarty. "Communication between husband and wife is tremendously important."

Often there is terror at the thought of having another baby. Mothers ask themselves, "Can I live with the risk?" There is danger, too, according to Dr. Mandell, in advising parents to quickly have another child. In a study of 30 women told to quickly have a replacement baby, 60 per cent had spontaneous abortions.

"A SIDS MOTHER should wait until she is strong enough to have another baby and not have another child when her body is feeling the effects of grief," he said.

In the wake of a SIDS death, parents in shock are not able to absorb much, but they need to hear right away in the emergency room that it was not their fault, there was nothing they could have done about it, that the doctor and the hospital did everything possible.

The police are often the first on the scene. Their attitude carries much weight — they represent the legal system. It is important that they are sympathetic, not suspicious. "We have had some people badly scarred from thoughtless police," said Ms. Moriarty.

In Cook County, which has the highest infant death rate in the nation, an autopsy is guaranteed and SIDS is put on the death certificate. The Regional Center at Loyola checks the coroner for all such deaths and sends the family the coroner's letter exonerating them from a legal standpoint, stating that SIDS was the cause of death and nothing could have been done to prevent it. The brochure, "Facts About Sudden Infant Death Syndrome," is enclosed.

THEN THE center sends the family a letter of sympathy. About two weeks after the death, a representative of the center calls upon the family, first contacting them by phone. Two months later, she visits again. This is the minimum contact, depending on the needs of the family.

Bereaved parents feel a great surge of support upon meeting other parents who have lost babies so, if they wish, they are put in touch with the National Foundation SIDS and its local Chicago chapter.

The family benefits too by support from the clergy, from church members, from friends and neighbors.

Said one readjusted SIDS family, "We felt like lepers; people were afraid to call, afraid to visit. They stayed away in droves — when we needed someone to talk to."

And so the Loyola SIDS Center sends Irene Moriarty and other speakers and their films to all who will listen — to policemen, to firemen, to paramedics, ambulance drivers, to emergency room personnel, to nurses' clubs, to gatherings of clergymen, to church groups, clubs and organizations. A simple telephone call to the center, 531-3420, sets the wheels in motion.

Perhaps it is the answer to the prayer of the priest who opened the meeting at Alexian Brothers Medical Center — "Lord, help us to find what we might need to share with a hurting family."

Shake, rattle 'n roll

NOSTALGIA WAS the theme of the evening Saturday when Arlington Heights Infant Welfare Chapter staged its 'Fifties Frolic." Wearing bobby sox and loafers, long, straight skirts with back kick pleats, felt poodle skirts, strapless gowns over hooped petticoats or letter sweaters, guests danced to Bill Haley and the Comets' "Rock Around the Clock," Pat Boone's "Blue Suede Shoes," Elvis Presley's "You Ain't Nothing But a Hound Dog" and Ricky Nelson's "Honeycomb." Authentic music was by Chucky and the Dip Sticks. At left, Uni D. Bouffante sings out wearing an old baggy tux, his hair in a DA. Co-winners in the dance contest were Fred and Sandie Anderson, top, and Marsha and Kurt Carlisle, right. Prizes for costumes included an old radio, old silver dancing shoes and a football autographed by the Bears. The party, complete with rost beef buffet dinner, was held in the Knights of Columbus Hall in Barrington.

Auto insurance risks hard to understand

Dear Atty. Martoccio,

I recently married and my husband and I thought it would be a good idea to be on the same car insurance policy. We contacted my insurance company with whom I've had insurance since I started to drive four years ago. My husband gave them the necessary information about himself, and within a couple of weeks I was notified that my existing policy would be cancelled upon the renewal date. The reason was that my husband had a past history of several speeding violations but that was all (no accidents or anything else.)

To me, this action seems a bit severe. I'm sorry now that I tried to give the company more business because I ended up getting the shaft.

I was wondering if this couldn't come under the heading of discrimination? —L. B.

Dear L. B.

Yes, it does seem very unfair but I'm inclined to believe that the company's actions would not fall under the heading of discrimination, at least not in the legal sense.

THE MANNER IN which an insurance company determines "risks" is often a mystery to us on the other side of the fence.

The only thing I can tell you is that an insurance company has the right to determine risks, and especially those who are past "driving" ones. Probably, under the terms of the policy, the insurance company does not have to give a reason.

The reasoning behind the determination of risks seems to be that if there is a history of accidents there are likely to be more in the future, and if there are several speeding tickets the driver is not careful enough and may become involved in more serious troubles.

Insurance companies consider so many situations to be risks, it is impossible to include and explain them all in this column.

But here are a few of the more common ones. The insurance companies have different geographical zone considerations. For instance, you are considered "high risk" if you live in a high density, crime area or in a poor neighborhood.

THERE ARE MANY "high risks" I can understand. Others escape me. I realize, in admitting this, I am "sticking out my neck" and will probably hear from a few insurance agents. But recently a relative of mine was informed that his insurance would not be renewed. Most of the "risks" were not his fault, including an occasion in which a driver had a fatal heart attack and rammed into my relative's car. Two other incidents took place while his car was parked in a lot, and again when parked on the street.

Eventually, I suppose, we'll have no-fault auto insurance which is still a controversial topic with anti-no faulters saying fees will skyrocket after it goes into effect and the pro-no faulters insisting it will not. One thing is certain. There is virtually no way that a driver can be "risk" free, and the situation does not look as though it's going to improve.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Improve condition before jumping rope

I've read that jumping rope for 10 minutes is as good as jogging for half an hour. I am a female, 5 feet 4 and weigh 115. I am not overweight, but I am flabby. Will jumping rope firm up my legs, hips, stomach and buttocks? How long do I have to jump rope to see any improvement.

Skipping or jumping rope can be very vigorous exercise — depending upon your skill and speed. Jogging can be moderate exercise — at a slow pace — or a major effort if you jog at top speed. Considering the variabilities in how you can either jog or skip rope there is no set rule for comparisons.

As a guide though, Dr. Fred Kasch, San Diego State University, points out that you will have to turn the rope about 80 times a minute because of gravity. You can swing it faster but not slower.

At that speed a person will use 12 to 14 times as much oxygen as he would sitting still. This is equivalent to jogging at a rate of a mile each seven or eight minutes. That is a fairly vigorous effort.

THE EXERCISE capacity of an average sedentary man is only nine times his resting use of oxygen and for females only seven times the resting use of oxygen. You can get a good training effect with exercise that requires only six times for men and four-and-a-half times for women the resting oxygen use.

All of this means that skipping rope cannot be done at the lower safe levels we recommend for training of unsupervised sedentary people. It is better to improve your physical condition first with other exercises, such as jogging very slowly or fast walking. The rule is train don't strain.

The individual who is conditioned to the point that running a seven or eight minute mile is no unusual stress can safely skip rope as an alternative type of exercise.

The effects of skipping rope will also depend on how you do it. If you jump, from both feet each time, as opposed to stepping over the rope it may increase the use of your lower abdominal muscles. As a rule running, walking and skipping exercises do not work the lower abdominal muscles. You need to do sit-ups and leg-lift type exercises for this effect. These exercisess won't help either if your tummy is full of fat. You can't compress the fat inside the abdomen with strong abdominal muscles. You have to empty the abdominal cavity of fat, by weight reduction.

WALKING, JOGGING, swimming and other forms of exercise are important in helping you to use up and empty out the fat. I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-7, Girth Control: Avoiding the Big Middle, to help you with an exercise program for your "tummy." Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your request to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

I must also warn would be rope skippers that it is usually hard on the feet. I received a letter from another lady in the same mail with yours. She was distressed because she had damaged her feet. Skipping rope causes you to use the balls of the feet. This may cause the bones to enlarge or cause pain. Be sure you use good shoes if you skip rope. And it is better to do it on a padded floor, such as a good rug. Minimize the jar as much as possible to avoid hurting your feet. Do not skip rope more than four or five minutes at a time when you first start.

It's hard to remove bathtub bleach stains

Dear Dorothy: Expecting to remove two small stains in the bathtub, I put in a strong bleach solution. The upshot is a large brown circle around the drain. I've tried several kinds of cleansers, but thus far no luck. Is there something that would at least fade the stain? — Clare L. Crowley

You've become a member of a small army of people who have learned the hard way that a bathtub can be far from the impervious installation it appears to be. Strong bleach, followed by rough cleansers, might have ruined the glaze. There are three home remedies that might lighten the stain. None is guaranteed. One is to sprinkle pumice powder on a felt pad soaked in oil. No. 2 is to make a paste of cream of tartar with hydrogen peroxide, rub the stained area with it, let stand for five minutes, then rinse. No. 3 is to make a paste of the commercial cleanser that contains oxalic acid, let it stay on for an hour, then rinse. Here's hoping.

Dear Dorothy: This is a tip for those who live in areas where cold weather can be expected — and especially icy rain. They should put tape over the keyhole of the car if the vehicle is to be parked outdoors. Sometimes when a lock is frozen, applying heat to the key (through matches or a lighter) will help melt the ice. But the one best way to keep ice from getting into the lock is tape. — Jerry Mueller

Dear Dorothy: Does everyone know about freezing bacon strips on a cookie sheet and then storing in a bag? You can then easily select as many strips as you need. — Dorsey deRaismes

While I've never tried this method, I understand it lasts a bit longer cooked and then frozen than when simply frozen raw.

Engagements heighten the holiday season

Messner-Urban

Lee Ann Messner of Barrington and Marty P. Urban of Palatine are engaged, according to news from Lee Ann's parents, the Gerald Messners of Hoffman Estates. Marty is the son of the Philip E. Urbans, Palatine. The wedding is planned for April '77.

Both young people graduated from Fremd High, Lee Ann in '75 and her fiance in '74. She works at the Woodfield Bank, Schaumburg; he is with Motorola in Carol Stream.

Chalupka-Muehlfelder

The engagement of Susan E. Chalupka to Karl F. Muehlfelder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Muehlfelder, Palatine, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald J. Chalupka, Barrington. An October '77 wedding is planned.

The couple both graduated from Fremd High School last year. Susan works for Map Multiple Listing Service, Palatine, and the Limited, Woodfield, and her fiance is with Pettibone Corp., Elk Grove.

Gregory-Gleason

Mr. and Mrs. Richard K. Gregory of Elk Grove Village announce the engagement of their daughter, Judith Ann, to James J. Gleason, son of Mrs. Rosella Castillo of Lombard. A May '77 wedding is planned.

Judith is a '74 graduate of Elk Grove High School and '76 graduate of Harper College. Her fiance graduated from Foreman High, Chicago, and is employed by Marketing Resources, Elk Grove Village.

Capparelli-Kleine

Mr. and Mrs. James Capparelli, Palatine, announce the engagement of their daughter, Valerie Diane, to William H. Kleine, son of Mrs. Evelyn Kleine, Morton Grove.

Valerie is a 1974 graduate of Wheeling High School and is employed by Allstate Insurance, Northbrook. William is a graduate of Maine East High School and is the owner of J & B Automotive, Skokie.

A May wedding is planned.

Schoch-Everett

The engagement of Susan Catherine Schoch to Gary Allen Everett, son of the Charles Everetts of Des Plaines, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Schoch of Mount Prospect. The couple will be married next August.

They both graduated from Western Illinois University, Susan in recreation and park administration and Gary in physical education. A Prospect High graduate, she works at North Suburban YMCA, Northbrook. He is a graduate of Maine West High.

Hillenbrand-Hankel

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Hillenbrand of Naperville announce their daughter Ann's engagement to Ron Hankel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Hankel of Arlington Heights. An August '77 wedding is planned.

Ann is a senior at the University of New Hampshre in Durham, majoring in horse husbandry, and Ron is a physical education teacher and coach in Wells, Maine. He is a '71 graduate of Prospect High School and a '75 graduate of North Central College.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Erkkila

Karen Elizabeth Koski– Donald Roger Erkkila

White roses, stephanotis, ivy and baby's breath were strewn on the ivory Bible she carried, one given to her in childhood by her parents, as Karen Elizabeth Koski became Mrs. Donald Roger Erkkila.

The candlelight ceremony took place Oct. 15 at Sand Lake Chapel in Sand Lake, Minn. Karen is the daughter of the William J. Koskis of Embarrass, Minn. Donald's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clifford O. Erkkila of Arlington Heights.

Maid of honor was Debra Wolff of Eveleth, Minn. Corinne Esala of Duluth and Mrs. Lynda Irlbacker, of Lake Leander, Minn., the groom's sister, were the bridesmaids. Attending the groom as best man was Wayne Suoja of Buhl, Minn. Donald's brother, Clifton, and his brother-in-law, Herbert Irlbacker, both of Lake Leander, served as groomsmen. The bride's brothers, Dean and William Jr., ushered.

A SMALL reception in the church parlors was followed by a reception and dance at Paavola's Corner in Sand Lake. The couple spent a brief honeymoon at Mount Telemark in Cable, Wis.

Karen, who studied nursing at Eveleth Vocational Technical School, is employed at East Range Clinic in Virginia, Minn. Donald is a graduate of the University of Illinois where he majored in engineering. He works at the Minntac Plant in Mountain Iron, Minn., and he and his bride live nearby in Parkville.

Guard your credit cards

Christmas time usually results in a rash of credit card losses and thefts, according to the leading manufacturer of credit cards.

Addressograph-Multigraph Corporation notes that it is not uncommon for credit card holders to do things in the excitement of holiday shopping that contribute to such losses. The company offers the following do's and don'ts to credit card holders:

• Do make a list of all credit card account numbers and the telephone numbers to be called in the event of loss or theft.

• Don't write your personal identification number on any card with which it's used.

• Don't carry cards in such a manner that you are easy prey for pickpockets for whom, incidentally, Christmas is the busiest time of the year.

• Do check your credit cards before leaving home for such things as expiration dates to assure that they will remain valid during a holiday vacation.

• Don't go home from a shopping trip without first checking to see if you have all your credit cards.

• Do make sure after each transaction that you get your card back and the imprinted sales slip is for the correct amount.

• Don't leave cards in a hotel or motel room if traveling during the holidays; use the safe or safety deposit box.

• Don't expose plastic cards to extremes in temperature. Cards can become brittle if kept out in the cold . . . a good reason why they shouldn't be used to scrape ice off of windshields. Leaving them in the glove compartment of a car on a hot day can cause the embossed letters to flatten.

One last caution is to watch your spending this gift-giving season. Particularly when several people are using the same credit card, there is a chance of overextending your budget, and that's not the kind of gift you'd want to give yourself.

Holiday 'walks' offer home-decorating tips

What better way to discover unusual ideas for decorating the home at Christmas than to take a walk through several already displaying the holiday spirit.

It's a pleasant way to go shopping, too.

Two area housewalks are being arranged for next week, and the public is invited to both. The seven PEO chapters in Arlington Heights have their tour slated for Thursday, Dec. 2, and the Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club plans its big event for Saturday, Dec. 4.

THEMES OF the six decorated homes for "PEO Doorsteps to Christmas" are "A Country Pine Christmas," "A Sparkling Christmas," "Noel," "Christmas In A Manger," "A Basket Full of Christmas Joy," and "Joys of A Christmas Past."

A final step along the way is at the Arlington Heights Historical Society where "Christmas Treats" of spiced tea and cookies will be served.

Boutiques at each home on the PEO walk Dec. 2 will offer holiday gifts and decorations. Hours are 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and 6:30 to 9 p.m. Tickets, sold only in advance, are $2.50 and may be obtained by calling 392-4732. Proceeds go to PEO educational projects.

MOUNT PROSPECT Juniors are inviting guests to take "An Old-Fashioned Walk" Dec. 4 from 1 to 5 p.m. On the tour will be distinctive homes, from traditional to contemporary, each appropriately decked for the holiday season.

Handmade ornaments, decorations and baked goods, also candles and stationery, will be sold at all the homes.

Tickets are $3 in advance or $3.50 at the door. Information and reservations are available from Mrs. Rose Niedert, 253-3116.

Waycinden club nets $3000

After all the receipts were in and the bills were paid, the eighth annual fall luncheon and fashion show by Waycinden Park Woman's Club showed a profit of $3,000 — all of which will aid the group's philanthropy for another year.

Some of the organizations reached by the club's helping hand are The Lambs, Wally Phillips Neediest Children's Christmas Fund, Des Plaines Historical Society, Graceland Home for the Aged, Kirk and Clearbrook Centers, School Districts 59 and 214, Des Plaines Paramedics, and a project which supplies food baskets for the needy at Easter, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

LeeWards CREATIVE CRAFTS CENTER

Basketball feast tonight; 12 teams in tournaments

The first big round of Thanksgiving basketball tourney fever strikes tonight when 12 area teams take the floor, including two schools that will see action for the first time.

Fremd and Rolling Meadows are the teams that will debut tonight and both will be tested right off the bat. The Fremd Vikings meet Riverside-Brookfield at 5:15 p.m. in the Glenbard West tourney, and Rolling Meadows will face Fenton, already 2-0 against Mid-Suburban teams, in the 8:30 game at the Fenton Tournament.

TONIGHT'S MOST pressing piece of business, however, is Brian Allsmiller's assault on the all-time area career scoring record of 1562 held by former Palatine great Ron Kozlicki. Allsmiller, Buffalo Grove's 6-foot-8 superstar, netted 33 points in his first game last Friday and now the redheaded senior needs just 24 tonight against Loyola in the Niles West Tourney to break the 13-year-old mark.

Allsmiller and his Bison teammates, 1-0 on the year, will take the floor at 6 p.m. against a Loyola team that reached the quarterfinals of the IHSA Class AA tournament last March.

For Allsmiller and the rest of the area cagers, the holiday tourney schedule will break for turkey dinner Thursday and then resume Friday, and, in some cases, Saturday.

In addition to Fremd, Rolling Meadows and Buffalo Grove, nine other area teams play tonight. They are:

Prospect (0-1) vs. New Trier East, 7 p.m. at Maine West;

Hersey (0-1) vs. St. Francis, 7 p.m. at Glenbard West;

Palatine (0-1) vs. Mundelein, 7 p.m. at Mundelein;

Elk Grove vs. Lake Park, 7 p.m. at Hoffman Estates;

St. Viator (1-0) vs. Crown, 7 p.m. at Crown;

Maine West (1-0) vs. Maine South, 8:30 p.m. at Maine West;

Arlington (1-1) vs. York, 8:30 p.m. at York;

Hoffman Estates vs. Addison Trail, 8:30 p.m at Hoffman;

Forest View (0-1) Marion Catholic, 9 p.m. at Woodstock.

MEADOWS' UNTESTED team will find acid waiting for them at the Fenton Holiday Tournament tonight as the Mustangs of second-year coach Bill Weinberg face the two-time winner host school.

"We're kind of anxious to see what we have, but there are other teams we'd rather see in our opener," Weinberg said.

The Mustangs will start 6-foot returning letterman Bob Rose and 6-3 junior sharpshooter Kent Walker in the backcourt with 6-8 center Kevin Kiley, who transferred back to Rolling Meadows from California, and 6-3 forwards Dave Crouch and Jeff Schrock.

"We think we're going to be a little quicker than last year," Weinberg said, "but so much depends on our ability to rebound. If we give opposing teams three or four shots on offense, our quickness isn't going to make any difference."

The Mustangs will also rely on 6-3 Bob Furlan, guard Sam DeMarie and healing football casualties Paul Schweikert, Jeff McClellan and Kevin Krutwig.

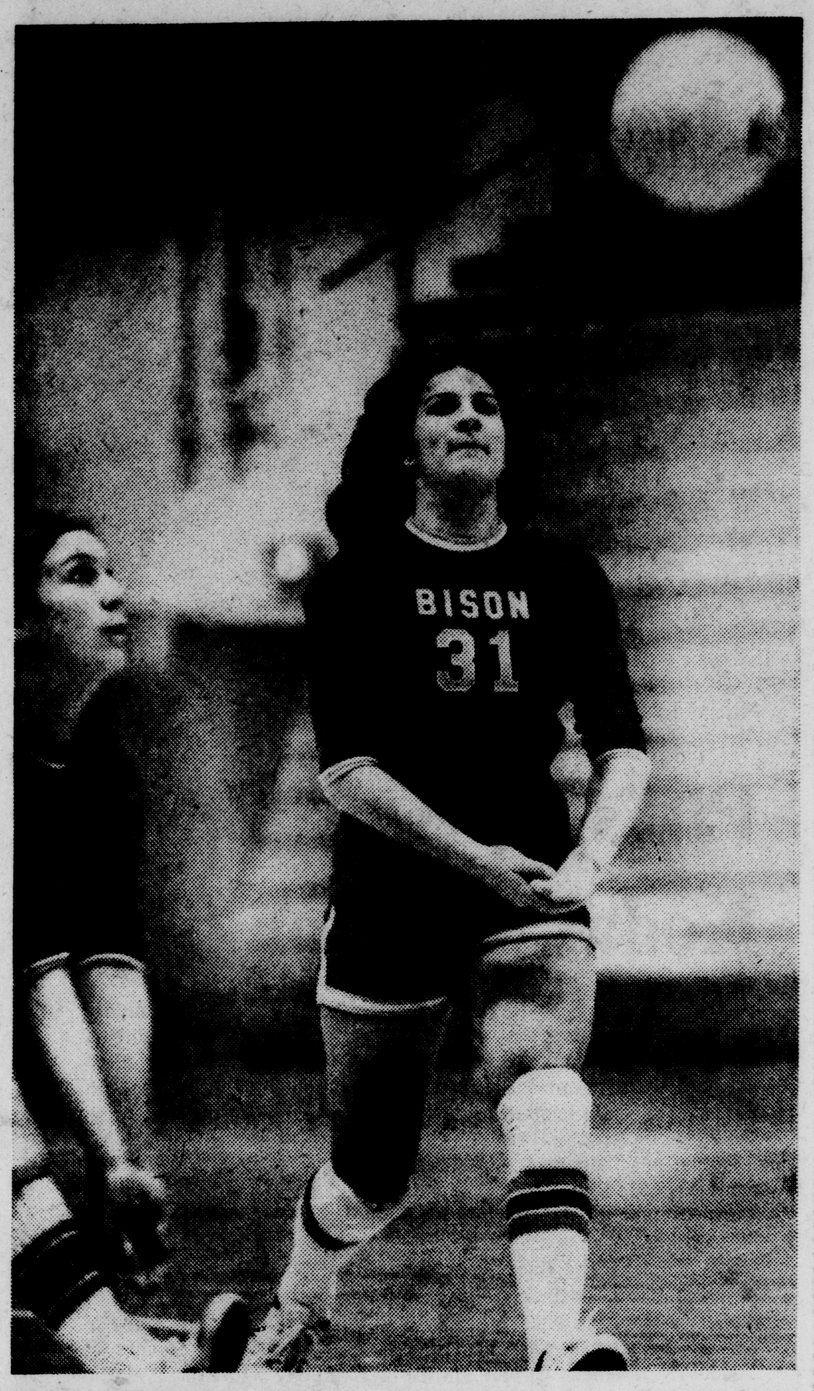
SECOND-YEAR head coach Mo Tharp is excited about Fremd's basketball season and for good reason. In fact, the Vikings will have at least six good reasons why they could be looking from the other end of last year's 8-16 overall record.

The Vikes welcome back returning lettermen 6-1 guard Tom Moffett, 6-5 center Rich Ramsey, 6-4 forward Craig Rawlins, 6-4½ forward-center Dale Hallberg and 6-4 forward Kerry Field.

"We don't have the overpowering big man," Tharp explained, "but we have decent size across the front line. The big kids can jump pretty well."

Also slated for work are 5-11 Hoffman Estates transfer Jeff Curtin, 6-1 Tony Marasco, 5-9 Kevin Weaver and 5-11 Mike Gavigan. Also getting a serious look is 6-5 sophomore Drew Mize.

Fremd's scoring punch is expected to come from its front-liners with Hallberg, the team's leading scorer (12.1) in the league last year, showing the way. Rawlins hit for a 6.9 average, Field 6.4, Schroeder 4.2, Moffett 3.0 and Ramsey 1.3.



BUFFALO GROVE'S Michelle Smithern prepares for a set as Laura Kubik (31) backs her up during volleyball action at Hersey Tuesday night. Smithern had a fine passing game as the Bison held on to defeat the defending Mid-Suburban League champion Huskies, 2-15, 18-20, 205. (Photo by Anne Cusak)

Doyle Alexander signs with Texas

ARLINGTON, Tex. — The Texas Rangers Tuesday signed right handed pitcher Doyle Alexander, their second acquisition from the major league's first free agent draft, a club source said.

Alexander had played out his option this season with the New York Yankees, after starting the year with Baltimore.

Rangers general manager Danny O'Brien spent the day in the Providence, R.I. office of Jerry Kapstein, the agent for several of the free agent players who have been signed in the past two weeks.

THE RANGERS, since they did not lose a player by the free agent route this year, were allowed to sign only two players from the free-agent draft conducted early this month.

Last week Texas signed former Oakland shortstop Bert Campaneris to a five-year contract.

Texas also wanted to sign third baseman Sal Bando, who went to Montreal, or Rollie Fingers, who told Rangers officials Monday he had decided not to sign with them.

That sent the Rangers dealing for Alexander, 26, who has a six-year major league career won-loss record of 51-48.

ALEXANDER, chose by the maximum 12 teams in the draft, compiled a 13-9 record with Baltimore and New York last season. He pitched 201 innings, gave up 172 hits, 63 walks and struck out 58. He had an earned run average of 3.36.

After indicating he planned to play out of option with Baltimore, Alexander was traded to the Yankees in the deal which sent Ken Holtzman to Baltimore. Alexander started his major league career with Los Angeles.

Twice last season Alexander, a native of Alabama, carried no-hitters into the ninth inning only to surrender a hit.

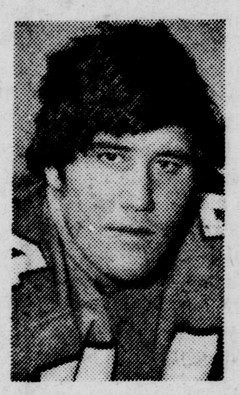
Alexander became expendable with the Yankees when they signed Don Gullet in the free-agent draft.

Alexander joins a starting pitching staff that includes right handers Gaylord Perry and Bert Blyleven and lefty Jim Umbarger.

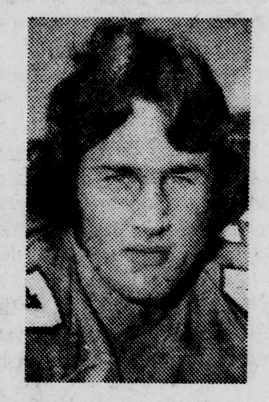
Finis, Pancratz, Stauner collect second team slots on All Big Ten

ONE OF THE MOST attentive fans at the Maryland-Virginia football game had four legs . . . and used them to get a closer look at the action on the field. One of the referees cautiously approached this avid pigskin follower, gained his confidence, and then gave the high sign to the bench to have him removed from the game.

Jerry Finis



Kevin Pancratz



Jim Stauner

From Herald Wire Services

Herald area products Jerry Finis, Kevin Pancratz and Jim Stauner earned second team positions on the 1976 All Big Ten football squad chosen by the league's coaches for United Press International.

Finis (Fremd), Pancratz (Hersey) and Stauner (Palatine) all play for the University of Illinois.

Finis was selected as a second team offensive tackle and Pancratz at offensive guard. Stauner was picked in the defensive secondary.

MICHIGAN and Ohio State, co-champions of the Big Ten and both bound for bowl games, dominated the 1976 team released Thursday.

The Wolverines, 22-0 victor over Ohio State in the season finale to share the title with a 7-1 record, placed nine men on the 22-man first team, six of them on offense and three on defense, while Ohio State had six representatives, two on offense and four on defense. Michigan will play in the Rose Bowl and Ohio State in the Orange Bowl.

Named from Michigan on offense were tackle Bill Dufek, guard Mark Donahue, center Walt Downing, quarterback Rick Leach, running back Rob Lytle, and flanker Jim Smith; on defense end John Anderson, tackle Greg Morton, and linebacker Calvin O'Neal.

OHIO STATE placed tackle Chris Ward and guard Bill Lukens on offense, and end Bob Brudzinski, tackle Nick Buonamici, guard Aaron Brown and defensive back Ray Griffin on defense.

Completing the offensive first team were wide receiver Scott Yelvington of Northwestern, tight end Mike Cobb of Michigan State, running back Scott Dierking of Purdue, and placekicker Dan Beaver of Illinois.

Others making the defensive first team were linebacker Scott Studwell of Illinois, and defensive backs Pete Shaw of Northwestern, Paul Beery of Purdue and George Adzick of Minnesota.

Nine of the first team players made the team for a second straight year, Cobb, Ward, Smith, Beaver, Brudzinski, Morton, Buonamici, O'Neal and Shaw.

Bison girls defeat defending MSL volleyball champs

by PAUL LOGAN

For two of the past three years, the Buffalo Grove Bison have come within a spike or two of winning the North Division volleyball title outright.

The girls of Coach Paula Von Gerichten have tied for first place only to be eliminated from the Mid-Suburban League playoff through teh tiebreaker rules. But this season looks to be the year of the Bison.

Buffalo Grove handed defending Mid-Suburban League champion Hersey its first divisional loss Tussday night, 20-15, 18-20, 20-5. But the Huskies didn't fall without a fight.

THE BISON were tied three times before pulling away behind the serving of Joyce Gallagher. Four straight points snapped a 9-9 deadlock with Michelle VanCompernolle's spike putting the Grove up 13-9.

Another spike by VanCompernolle helped keep the Bison out in front moments later at 14-11.

Hersey rallied behind the services of Nina Stanton to narrow the score at 17-15. Then Laura Kubik's spike regained the serve for the Bison. Debbie Underwood's three straight serves ended the first game.

The Huskies of Coach Kay Duba battled back in the second game, coming back from four-point deficits to tie the game at 12-all, 13-all and 14-all.

WITH NANCY GAWELL finding the range on four serves and a timely spike by Jan Labellarte, the Huskies surged to a 17-14 advantage.

The Bison rallied to go up 18-17 before Hersey's final comeback forced a third game. Labellarte served for the final three points.

Buffalo Grove cruised to its sixth victory in seven tries and upped its divisional record to 3-0 with a strong third game. The serving combination of Gallagher and Sherri Blum proved too much for the Huskies. Gallagher had the first six, including a fine spike by the petite Blum.

Blum hammered the next seven serves to make it 13-0. Then the twosome finished off the Huskies.

VON GERICHTEN wasn't very pleased with her team's serving in the first two games, but she said that wasn't too unusual for her Bison. She was pleased, however, that her team escaped with a win.

If her team continues winning, Von Gerichten said the North Division showdown would come against Arlington on Dec. 9.

Hersey's record slipped to 1-1 in the North and 1-3 over-all. Duba thought her team played well except in the all important serving category. Beth Frye, Hersey's smallest starter, stood out in setting and spiking with Gawell being the Huskies' most consistent server.

Underwood, the Bison captains, also did well in spiking and setting.

IN OTHER VOLLEYBALL action, it was Hoffman Estates over Conant 23-21, 20-13, Arlington over Palatine 20-1, 20-1, Schaumburg over Prospect 20-14, 20-17, Forest View over Elk Grove 20-12, 20-2, Maine East over Maine West 20-12, 12-20, 20-17 and Fremd over Wheeling 23-21, 20-10.

Cubs make move while Sox name new coaching staff

The Cubs said Tuesday night the club's executive vice president, John Holland, would make a "major announcement" at a Wednesday morning press conference.

It was expected that Holland, who retired almost a year ago, would name a new general manager of the Cubs' baseball operation.

A year ago, when Holland gave up his active role with the team, E. R. Saltwell was named general manager. But there were doubts then of Saltwell's knowledge of the operation of the team on the field.

Bob Lemon, meanwhile, the appointed manager of the White Sox, named three new coaches to his staff and said he would retain Orestes "Minnie" Monoso as first base coach for the 1977 season.

Lemon named Stan Williams, 40, as pitching coach; Larry Doby, 51, as batting coach and Bobby Knoop, 38, as third base coach.

Williams, a veteran of 14 major league seasons with the Dodgers, Cardinals, Yankees, Indians and Twins through 1971, won 109 games while losing 94. He was pitching coach in 1975-76 for the Boston Red Sox.

Doby, a power hitting outfielder and seven-time American League All Star, was a batting coach last season with the Montreal Expos. He played most of his career with the Cleveland Indians, but played two and a half seasons with the White Sox.

Knoop, manager last season for El Paso in the Texas League, and in 1974 for the Quad Cities team in the Midwest League, also played briefly for the White Sox, but spent most of his career with the California Angels and the Kansas City Royals.

The Sox said Jim Busby, third base coach last season, has signed to coach the expansion Seattle Mariners team for 1977 and that the team's other coaches, Ken Silvestri and Jim Mahoney would be assigned to other jobs within the organization.

Pitt's Dorsett tops Kodak All-Star list

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — Running back Tony Dorsett and middle guard Al Romano from undefeated and top ranked Pittsburgh head the 1976 Kodak All-America team as selected by the 2,100 members of the American Football Coaches Assn. Dorsett, college football's all-time leading ground gainer and the top contender for the Heisman Trophy, received the most votes of anyone on the 23-member unit. He was joined in the backfield by Ricky Bell of Southern Cal, Rob Lytle of Michigan and Rice quarterback Tom Kramer, the nation's leading passer.

The only other teams with two players were Ohio State and Notre Dame as the Buckeyes placed guard Chris Ward and defensive end Bob Brudzinski while the Irish were represented by tight end Ken MacAfee and defensive end Ross Browner. The remainder of the offense was filled out by split end Larry Seivers of Tennessee, tackles Warren Bryant of Kentucky and Mike Vaughn of Oklahoma, guard Joel Parrish of Georgia, center Derrell Gofourth of Oklahoma State and kicker Steve Little of Arkansas.

The remainder of the defense includes tackles Joe Campbell of Maryland and Wilson Whitely of Houston, linebackers Robert Jackson of Texas A-M and Tom Howard of Texas Tech and defensive backs Bill Armstrong of Wake Forest, Oscar Edwards of Nebraska and Gary Green of Baylor.

Stars shine in full NBA schedule

It was a busy night in the National Basketball Assn. and some familiar names are still making headlines.

Julius Erving paced a balanced scoring attack with 19 points Tuesday night as the Philadelphia 76ers defeated the Boston Celtics 116-102. Philadelphia boosted its winning streak to three in a row and has now won six of its last seven starts. Layups by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Kermit Washington with nine seconds left gave the Los Angeles Lakers a come-from-behind 117-114 win over the Milwaukee Bucks, spoiling the coaching debut of Don Nelson. The loss was the seventh in a row and 11th in 15 games for the Bucks, who led 56-54 at the half.

Pete Maravich and Aaron James combined for 62 points to lead the New Orleans Jazz to a 117-94 win over the Golden State Warriors. Maravich, the NBA's No. 2 scorer, had 37 points and sparked a second-half surge that gave New Orleans its 10th win in 17 games. George Gervin scored a game-high 34 points and Larry Kenon collected 23 to steer the San Antonio Spurs to a 122-115 NBA victory over Buffalo and hand the Braves their sixth straight loss.

Brian Taylor sank two free throws after the final buzzer Tuesday night to give the Kansas City Kings a 100-98 victory over the New York Knicks. Taylor's free throws came after he stole the ball on a New York inbound pass and was fouled by Walt Frazier as he raced in for what appeared to be a sure field goal as time ran out.

Cards swap Ferguson for Dierker

HOUSTON — The Houston Astros, seeking a front line catcher, Tuesday swapped no-hit pitcher Larry Dierker to the St. Louis Cardinals, baseball's busiest off-season traders, in a four-play deal that included versatile backstop Joe Ferguson.

The Cardinals, overloaded with catchers since the recent acquisition of Dave Rader from the Giants in the first of three deals they have consummated since the close of the season, sent strong-armed catcher-outfielder Ferguson along with minor league outfielder Bobby Detherage to Houston, which committed itself to a pitching youth movement with the trade. Along with Dierker, the Cardinals also acquired journeyman infielder Jerry DaVanon for the fourth time.

Pele to get final kicks next year

NEW YORK — The New York Cosmos confirmed Tuesday that Pele, whose soccer career has the same legendary appeal as Babe Ruth in baseball, will retire after the 1977 season having achieved his goal of popularizing his sport in America.

Pele signed a three-year contract with the North American Soccer League club prior to the 1975 season for a reported $4.5 million and despite appeals by the Cosmos, the Brazilian star decided that he would quit while he was still remembered as "the Great One." The Cosmos said that persistent reports from Brazil that 1977 would absolutely mark the end of Pele's playing career came as no surprise to them.

"We haven't put too much pressure on him to sign, since we knew he was quite firm about quitting," said a Cosmos spokesman. "We appreciate his feelings. He'll be almost 36 when he retires and we respect his reasoning that 'It's better to retire while people still expect you play, rather than play and have people tell you to retire.' "

Harper

The Harper women's volleyball team closed their season with a fifth place finish in the state tournament, having been eliminated by Triton, the eventual state champion.

Harper reached the quarterfinals by defeating Highland Junior College and Truman Junior College.

The Hawks finished the season with a 3-9 record and a 1-4 mark in conference play.

Jane Krauser, one of the top servers and spikers for the Hawks, was voted the team's Most Valuable Player. Cathy Morita was Harper's captain and Rosemarie Reynolds was honored as most improved player.

Head coach Wanda Schweigert also singled out Tina Lutz, Jackie Settipani, Lee Ann Peterson, Cindy Inden, Peg Schwingel and Liz Culczycki for their play over the season.

Kay Pfeiffer was injured before the state tournament and Kathy Bell was injured before the season began.

Crippled boy tries to adjust

'Boredom is my biggest enemy'

by MURRAY OLDERMAN

STOCKTON, Calif. — (NEA) — The boy is linked irrevocably for life to the chair in which he is strapped. His body is gaunt and spastic. His face is hollow and somber. But there is an apparent sensitivity to Rob Mudd that cries out for release.

He is a 20-year-old in a crippled body who is still in the throes of reconciling himself to the fact that he will never walk again, never even stand up — that he will be dependent on others for his physical care and needs as long has he lives.

It's heartbreaking. And, for Rob Mudd, the memory of that Oct. 26 afternoon is still traumatic. He was a 15-year-old kid then, out for high school football because it was the thing to do.

"I REMEMBER there was a big drug scene at Lincoln High School," says his mother, Carol, "so I didn't mind him going out for football because I felt it would keep him occupied."

Rob was a sophomore, and the coaching system then was to let the kids act as cannon fodder for the varsity seniors in practice scrimmages. Rob weighed 150 pounds and was lined up at walkaway defensive end (comparable to a linebacker) on the left side. The scrimmage play was run his way. Rob ducked his head and stuck it in the path of the ball carrier, as he was taught — "face to the numbers," they call it in football lexicon.

In the violent contact, something snapped. And Rob found himself lying on the ground, not really feeling much pain but knowing something was wrong. He couldn't move.

"I WAS SOMEWHAT scared," he recalls, "but I didn't know what had happened at the time. I'd heard of broken necks and that you die when you had a neck broken."

He had never heard of quadraplegia. He was paralyzed in all four extremities and from mid-chest down.

He couldn't anticipate the boredom and occasional resignation that have become part of his daily life.

The Robert Mudd Sr. family is notched out of typical middle-class America. Bob, a silver-haired man in his late 40s whose face is bronzed from the California sun, is a marketing representative for Pacific Gas and Electric Co. His wife, Carol, is dark-haired and pleasant. They were both born and raised in Stockton, Calif., a small city near to where the San Joaquin River empties into a rich delta: an agricultural hub.

Their first born was Robert Mudd Jr., called Rob, dark haired like his mother, with a thin, brooding face. He is a fifth-generation Californian. Anne Marie, his sister, is a year younger. They are the only children.

BOB AND CAROL bought their home, a typical California ranch-style house, 17 years ago. It was the first one built on Stanton Way, set in the comfortable enclave called Lincoln Village, which is located on the north side of Stockton, close to the city line. Farms spread unbroken there just a couple of decades ago. Now there are trees and neatly clipped shrubs and watered green lawns. It's a nice neighborhood, and the high school is just a few blocks away.

There is a "for sale" sign on the Mudds' front lawn. They are moving, just as soon as their house sells, to a home they have had built in the Quail Lakes district a little to the south. They really hate to part with their home, but they feel the need for a house more related to the special needs of Rob, who right now can't wheel himself outside.

His life is wheel chairs, and catheters, urinary tract infections and fear of bed sores, a mother cranking a hydraulic device to lift him out of bed and swing him into a wheel chair, 25 days of hospitalization each year, physical therapy, diaphragmatic corsets and breathing difficulty, phantom pains and depression.

THE CARE OF Rob Mudd is costly. His father's insurance coverage has accounted for some of the expense. The bulk has been provided by the Crippled Children's Fund, which has already spent about $50,000 on his treatment. The Mudds contribute $200 a month.

Rob speaks softly because part of his chest and everything below is paralyzed. He has motion in his arms but no elasticity in his thumbs — his hands are frozen. A special tendon transplant operation is being contemplated to give him a chance for more freedom of movement with his hands.

"At times," he admits, "I have pain. I get these contractures in my elbows."

Sometimes there are also uncontrollable spasms in his lower limbs which almost throw him out of his chair. These could be controlled by an operation to completely sever the spinal cord, which was severely bruised, but the Mudds are reluctant to accede to this. Somewhere in the future they hope for miraculous medical advancement to help Rob.

AFTER HIS ACCIDENT, Rob's weight plummeted to 105. He is now up to 135, but still gaunt. His body has grown five inches. If he were ever to stand up, he'd stretch to 6-2.

The biggest problem is loneliness. The kids he grew up with and went to Lincoln High with seldom come around any more, though in the first flush of sympathy after the accident they raised a special fund of $18,000 which is now held in trust.

"I can see why they don't come around," shrugs Rob. "Out of sight, out of mind."

His days are spent reading and watching television — "just because it's there." Since the fall of 1974, he has been enrolled at Delta Junior College. He carries nine units and attends three afternoons a week, studying English literature, anthropology and psychology. He has an idea he'd like to study law some day.

THE TOUGHEST part of his curriculum is typing study papers. A special contraption is fitted to his hand, enabling him to strike one key at a time on an electric typewriter — laborious work. But he has a fine 3.2 average in his courses.

At school, he uses an electric chair to get around by himself, but the cobblestones on the modern campus sometimes jar the battery connection loose, causing the chair to go around in circles until someone can come along to rescue him.

Anne Marie is a sophomore at the same school. "Rob is more patient than he was before the accident," his sister says. "And he's using his brain more."

HIS IQ HAS been evaluated in the 140 range. He is a little morose about the future. "They talk about rehabilitating the boy," says his father. "He hasn't habilitated yet."

"It's kind of a bother," he says frankly about his confinement, "a built-in nuisance. It's kind of hard to accept."

"Of course, I'm bitter," says his mother. "Can't you see? I feel a point should be made, the way football is played, with the helmet being used as a weapon.

Since Rob's injury, the National Federation of State High Schools has banned the type of tackling which caused his injury. Last spring, the Mudds sued the school district for $3 million in damages because of Rob's injury, but a verdict was returned for the defendant. The case is now on appeal. Legal action has also been instituted against the California Interscholastic Federation.

Meanwhile, life as such must go on for Rob Mudd.

"Boredom, he says, "is my biggest enemy."

SOMETHING SNAPPED after Rob Mudd ducked his head and stuck it in the path of a ball carrier. Now he is totally dependent on his parents and sister for his physical care and needs.

Hoffman surges past Elk Grove

by ART MUGALIAN

Hoffman Estates coach Jerry Segebrecht was looking for turning points in his team's 48-39 victory over Elk Grove in the Hoffman Estates basketball tourney Tuesday, the Hawks first win of the season after one loss.

He figured something must have brought them to life.

"I think the turning point was when Elk Grove took the lead in the third quarter, what was it, 25-23?" Segebrecht mused. "Then (Derek) Storm hit those clutch baskets and we caught fire."

UNTIL THAT POINT, Hoffman Estates, now 1-1, seemed content to play catch-up most of the night. The Hawks trailed early — 6-2 at one stage — but 6-5 forward Joe Tully, who led all scorers with 23 points, kept them in the game in the first half.

But Storm, a 6-0 forward, hit on a pair of rebound baskets, the final one coming with just :02 left in the third period, to tie the game at 29, and Tully and 6-6 teammate Ron Warring took it from there.

Tully popped in four baskets and Warring had three in the final quarter as the Hawks built an insurmountable 43-33 lead over the next five and a half minutes.

"Tully played a good game tonight," said Segebrecht. "He carried us in the first half and then Warring came to life."

Elk Grove, opening the season under new coach Ken Grams, trailed 23-16 with :20 left in the first half, but a steal and a layup by Joe Woelful seemed to give the Grenadiers the second-half momentum.

THEN BASKETS by Mark Smith, Dave Champa and Marc Evans helped boost the Grens into a 25-23 third-quarter lead before Storm did his handiwork under the rim.

Smith, a husky 6-5 senior, led all rebounders with 11 and added 11 points. Teammates Evans and Tim Mimnaugh had 14 and 10 points, respectively.

In the tourney opener, Lake Park downed Addision Trail 51-40.

No surprise; no Cubs, Sox on all-star team

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Thurman Munson of the New York Yankees was the leading vote-getter among American League players Tuesday on the 1976 All-Star team published by the Sporting News.

The Cubs and White Sox did not have any representatives on the honor teams.

The two All-Star teams in the two major leagues were selected by vote of the players, and most of the honored players were not on last year's team.

The only American League repeaters were Munson and Baltimore's Jim Palmer and Reggie Jackson. The only repeaters in the National League were San Diego's Randy Jones and Cincinnati's Joe Morgan.

The Sporting News began its All-Star team in 1925.

The teams:

Formco, Ace dominate men's play

by DON CHRISTENSEN

Both Des Plaines Ace Hardware and Formco Metal Products took advantage of their opponents having an off night with both teams winning all three games in Paddock Classic Traveling League action at Buffalo Grove Striker Lanes.

Des Plaines Ace, led by Steve Fleming's league-leading 669, won all three games from Uncle Andy's Restaurant. The 17-year-old southpaw from Maine West High School started off with a modest 191, then heated up to 244, and finished off with a cool 234. Ace Hardware pulled the first game out with 899, then won easily with 967 and 993. Ray Stirber helped out with a steady 193,203,202 for 598.

The other three-game winner, Formco Metal Products, had two big shooters, Fred Hansen's 643 and Bob Kula's 641. Kula started out with 244 to pace Formco to a 961 triumph over Oost Produce. Then Bob slipped to 213 in the second game, but Hansen found the line with 237 to pick up the slack for a 969 victory. In the last game Fred stayed hot with 242 to preserve Formco's three-game sweep, good for 20 points.

BEVERLY LANES, barely edged out a 13-12 margin over Mr. Norm's Grand Spaulding Doge, and saw their league-leading margin shrink to 16 points.

In the first game Grand Spaulding won 908 to 875 with Bud Evert and Ray Ischer shooting 212 and 201 respectively. Although Beverly Lanes only shot 867 the second game, they won all eight points over the Dodgemen. In the last game Rich Wagner blasted the evening's high game, 256, to single-handedly lead his team to a 931 to 897 squeaker.

In the other hookup, Dick McFeely Pontiac won two out of three games, giving Dick McFeely a narrow 13-12 edge over Weber's Bar-B-Que Kettles. After starting with 986 and Tom Kouros showing the way with 233, Weber's lost their momentum and lost the last two games, mainly due to Randy Aubert's 235 and 619.

The league moves back to Des Plaines Lanes for the second time with the following encounters: Grand Spaulding Dodge vs. Uncle Andy's Restaurant; Formco Metal Products vs. Dick McFeely Pontiac; Des Plaines Ace Hardware vs. Beverly Lanes; Weber's Bar-B-Que Kettles vs. Oost Produce.

Standings: Beverly Lanes 186, Formco Metal Products 170, Grand Spaulding Dodge 159.5; Weber's Kettles 153.5, Uncle Andy's 146.5; Des Plaines Ace Hardware 137.5, Oost Produce 129.5; Dick McFeely Pontiac 117.5.

Striking starts climb; Peggy Harris rolls 621

Peggy Harris missed her Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League triplicate bowling patch which signifies a trio of identical scores in a single evening, but she couldn't have been too disappointed.

Peggy shot duplicate 214's before finishing with a 193 for a league-high 621 series. Her Ziebart Rustproofing of Des Plaines team captured five of seven points from Mason Shoes.

In other action around the league, Petterson Safety Service saw its first-place lead shrink to 10 points by losing a 5-2 decision to Striking Lanes, L-Tran Engineering swept Thunderbird Country Club, 7-0 and Ten Pin Bowl whipped Tower Cleaners, 7-0.

HARRIS, CARRYING a 182 average into the action, will improve upon her fifth place ranking among the individual bowlers which is headlined by Lorrie Nichols' 191.3.

Ziebart's success was enhanced by Carol Anderson's 534 and Joanne Christensen's 507 while Mason Shoes countered with Jackie Gard's 549, Rita Buge's 548 and Peggy Wales' 534-206.

Striking Lanes was led by balanced efforts of Lu Schoenberger's 551-214, Bette Brelle's 549-214, Eunice Whitmore's 510 and Judy Brumond's 505. Petterson responded with Winnie Lohse's 526, Bonnie Kuhn's 523, Bobbie Kostelny's 518-200 and Carol Sander's 502.

In the two sweeps, L-Tran rode the 552-211 of Isobel Kosi, 507-201 of sub Connie Blasek and 503 of Toshi Inahara past Thunderbird Country Club and its team leader Dee Kachelmuss who fired 513.

IN THE NIGHT'S finale, Ten Pin Bowl received solid shooting from Joan Plywack (567-205), Marge Lindenberg (549) and Betty Peterman (548-211) to topple Tower who was highlighted by Betty Parkhurst's robust 589-201-200.

STANDINGS

Petterson Safety Service 62, Striking Lanes 52, L-Tran Engineering 50, Ziebart of Des Plaines 46, Ten Pin Bowl 45, Mason Shoes 35, Thunderbird Country Club 31, Tower Cleaners 15.

Just dogs

by Dave Terrill

Thanksgiving meals bad for pets

Thanksgiving is the time for feasting on turkey, dressing, pumpkin pie and other tasty foods. Most pet owners are probably more inclined to give their dog a sample of the feast. The pet would be more thankful not to receive something other than his usual diet.

Dogs rarely get bored eating the same foods every day. In fact, you can take advantage of that characteristic. Once a balanced diet is determined, your dog will eat it day in and day out without any major change. Your dog's body might even have difficulty adjusting to dietary changes. So, unless your dog eats turkey and all that goes with it regularly, eating it on Thanksgiving may cause your pet a digestive upset.

As pointed out by Dr. Jack L. Tuttle, small animal extension veterinarian from the University of Illinois, in an article on the subject, giving your dog table food in addition to its regular diet may cause excess weight gain and intestinal irritation. Vomiting or diarrhea may develop within 12 to 24 hours if it does share your Thanksgiving meal. Although the problem is usually mild and temporary, it does stress the animal and it may become weaker and less able to fight other infections and diseases.

WITH EITHER vomiting or diarrhea, the dog loses fluid and becomes dehydrated if not treated. If your pet does vomit, do not give it anything more to eat or drink for 8 to 12 hours. Even water can induce vomiting so give ice chips if water is needed.

When you resume feeding your dog, provide a bland, non-irritating diet such as an equal mixture of boiled hamburger and rice for a couple of days. Most food-induced vomiting is mild and you may only need to withhold food and water to allow complete recovery.

Food-induced diarrhea is usually more frustrating than harmful. Feed a bland diet as described above for at least two or three days to prevent further intestinal irritation. Kaopectate given by mouth in dosages prescribed by your veterinarian can firm your dog's stool. If diarrhea persists, see your veterinarian.

All of the above can be eliminated if you will keep your dog on his regular diet over the holiday.

In second place with 195.58 points was the Golden Retriever, Bonnie Brooks Harvey, owned by Dick Guetzloff of Des Plaines.

The Open class winner was Jo-Lyn's Takes Two to Tango, CDX, owned by Elaine S. Brown of Glenview with a score of 197.67. The Novice title was won by Meadowpond Happy Valentine, a Golden Retriever owned by Ron Roberts of Toledo, Ohio, with a score of 198.33.

4-H dog training classes —

Dog obedience training classes for North Cook County 4-H members will begin on Thursday, Dec. 2, at the Northwest Obedience Club training hall, Wilson and Brockway sts., Palatine. The class starts at 7:30 p.m. and is open for dogs at least six months of age and have up-to-date rabies and distemper vaccinations. Dogs are not required to be pure-bred and tbe dog need not belong to the trainer.

The class will meet weekly for one hour. Anyone interested in the training class should contact Mrs. Anne Copeland, committee chairman, at 358-0497. There will be no charge for 4-H members.

Barks and Bays —

In the last column we asked which is the oldest of the breeds classified as Retrievers? There were a lot of guesses, but no one came up with the correct one.

The answer is the Curly-Coated Retriever, which was the first breed to be classified as a Retriever in England and has existed as a true breeding strain since 1855.

Kasper wins 11th Paddock grid contest

Bob Kasper

One seat remains for Paddock Publications' Pick the Winners Contest luncheon Saturday, Dec. 4 as Bob Kasper of Rolling Meadows won the 11th weekly contest.

Kasper, 24, mastered an upset laden card to win a stadium blanket and become eligible for the grand prize trip to the Rose Bowl.

A substitute teacher in Dist. 214 and a graduate of Forest View High School and Southern Illinois University, Kasper missed only three games to easily outdistance a record field of 1,190.

The results of the weeks' card are as follows:

College: USC 24, UCLA 14; Illinois 48, Northwestern 6; Notre Dame 40, Miami (Fla.) 27; Kansas 41, Missouri 14; Kentucky 7, Tennessee 0; Baylor 20, Texas 10; Illinois State 13, Eastern Illinois 8; Indiana 20, Purdue 14; Iowa 30, Michigan State 17.

Ask Andy

Dates are beautiful, versatile plants

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Becky Cole, 10, of Gallup, N.M., for her question:

HOW ARE DATES PROCESSED TO MAKE THEM EDIBLE?

The feathery-leafed date palm is not only beautiful, its uses are endless. The trunk becomes building material, the leaves make thatched roofs and matting, and the midribs of the leaves go into crates and furniture.

Baskets are made out of the leaflets and fuel comes from the leaf bases. The bud is eaten as a vegetable, and syrup, vinegar and alcohol are made from the fruit. Even the ground-up seeds are utilized in a nutritious feed for stock animals.

Of course, the fruit itself is highly prized. An oblong-shaped berry with a single hard seed, the date is from one to two inches long and may be reddish brown, golden or nearly black when ripe. The ripe date is truly a delectable food, but it is usually dried to make it last longer.

This is done either by sun drying or by a process called dehydration. Fruits such as grapes, figs, dates and prunes frequently are dried by dehydration because it is a faster and more controlled process. The heat and air are supplied by a furnace and a fan, and the temperature and humidity are very carefully monitored by the operator, who knows exactly how long each type of fruit takes to dry.

Dried dates resist spoiling because their high concentrations of sugar and other water-soluble materials prevent bacteria, fungi and other organisms from growing.

Iraq is the leading date-growing country in the world, but there are many date ranches in the Colorado desert, Southern California and parts of Arizona. The lovely palm likes lots of bright warm sunshine and plenty of water. A healthy tree may be from 60 to 80 feet tall with 20-pound clusters of fruit bearing more than 1,000 dates each.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Rusty Armstrong, 14, of Gastonia, N.C., for his question:

IF HANDLED BY HUMANS, CAN A BABY BIRD SURVIVE?

For a long time people thought that baby birds handled by humans were totally rejected thereafter by their parents. No so, the experts say. Your scent on the tiny fledgling will not keep the parents away.

So if you should find a bit of living, breathing fluff on the ground, put it back in its nest if at all possible. This may mean hauling out the ladder, or patching up the nest, or even tying up a broken limb, but all the effort you take will be worthwhile. Remember, no one is as good a parent as the parent birds themselves.

Of course, there are times when baby birds' mom and dad are gone and it is an orphan. In this case, make a little "nest" in a box or can with layers of tissues which can be removed one at a time when they get dirty. Keep your tiny friend warm with an "out of reach" light bulb, and feed it every 30 minutes or so during the day.

Try pea-sized pieces of meaty dog food dipped in a mixture of egg yolk and milk. This is a lot of work at first, but birds grow rapidly and soon, hopefully, you can release it to go back to the wild where it belongs.

Old-timers bid it, can you?

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

Today's hand would represent a considerable challenge to modern bidders. Anyone can look at the North-South cards and find a lot of ways to reach seven hearts. Nevertheless, we feel that if this hand appeared in the final ro[illegible] of the Blue Ribbon pairs, any pair rea[illegible]hing seven hearts would score about 10 [illegible]points out of a possible 12.

When it appeared in a rubber bridge game in the British seaside resort of Bognor, the lucky holders had no trouble reaching seven on the bidding shown in the box.

The analysis is interesting. It started with the understanding that a vulnerable three opening guaranteed seven tricks.

North looked at his own four tricks and jumped to six hearts on the theory that when you start with 11 tops you should be able to score 12 by good play.

Then South made a typical 1930 grand-slam bid. He had his seven tricks for his opening three bid, but reasoned that the fact that they consisted of six trumps and a side ace made them a super seven. In addition he was void of clubs.

Seven made easily since South's third diamond went on the ace of clubs and his fourth spade was ruffed in dummy.

A Vermont reader wants to know why the Blackwood convention replaced the Culbertson four notrump convention.

The Culbertson was the first artificial four notrump convention. Blackwood replaced it because it was both simpler and better.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Ship can be salvaged: writer

Raising Titanic—a novel idea

NEW YORK (UPI) — The author of a novel about the raising of the Titanic believes the luxurious liner, which sank to the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean almost 65 years ago, can be brought to the surface in good condition.

Furthermore, Clive Cussler explains exactly how the sunken ship can be salvaged in his spellbinding adventure novel, "Raise the Titanic." The time is the 1980s, and the method of lifting the huge four-stacker is ingenious but believable.

Cussler's book, published by the Viking Press late in October, already is headed for the best-seller list. Bantam Books has paid $840,000 for paperback rights and $450,000 has been offered for a movie to be filmed by producer Sir Lew Grade and director Stanley Kramer.

"I wrote it as entertainment," Cussler said, in an interview. "I tried to make it almost like a movie. It was a fascinating concept to work with."

CUSSLER SAID he hopes his novel will stir up some interest in finding the Titanic, which sank after hitting an iceberg in 1912 on its maiden voyage from England to New York. The motive for raising the Titanic in the novel was the belief that the only existing supply of a precious metal vital to the defense of the United States had been put aboard the ill-fated vessel.

Among the approximately 2,200 passengers aboard the 882-foot-long liner was John Jacob Astor, who was among the 1,490 dead, and the "unsinkable" Molly Brown of Denver, one of the 705 survivors.

"I hope we will see some action taken in 1977 to see if we can find the hulk," Cussler said. "It would not be a great technical feat."

Cussler said the Titanic sank in 12,000 feet of water.

"There is no destructive sea life at that depth," Cussler said. "The temperature is around freezing at 33 degrees. Also there is a low level of oxygen and salt in the water so it couldn't have rusted away. If cameras could be lowered, you should be able to read 'Titanic' over the bow."

Cussler, a native Californian who has spent much of his spare time skin-diving, has probed the depths of lakes in the Rocky Mountains in search of aircraft that disappeared 30 years ago.

So the thought of salvaging a ship would not be a new idea to him.

HE SAID HE ran across some oceanographic expedition's photos in a Denver library.

"They had dropped cameras in the deep," Cussler said. "They found actual objects, a newspaper beautifully preserved in 8,000 feet of water. A World War II fighter plane, which had been ditched at 10,000 feet, looked like it had just come out of the factory."

Seeing the picture of the well-preserved plane caused him to begin thinking about the Titanic and its condition.

Cussler said the movie version of his novel would be costly because of the nature of the story — a hurricane at sea, the raising of the ship, and the process of towing it to the Brooklyn Navy Yard. The film will be budgeted at $15 million.

Cussler said he has a general idea of what he wants to write about but does not make any outlines.

"I write page by page without knowing what will be next," he said. "I create the characters but let them develop by themselves. I had no idea that Marganin (one of the Soviet characters) would come out in a major role."

Better weather forecasting asked

BOSTON (UPI) — Weather forecasters depend too much on computers and too little on skill and imagination a meteorologist at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) said Tuesday.

"The short-range forecast has come a long way, but the skill of the forecaster hasn't improved much in the past 20 years," said Hurd C. Willett, a retired MIT professor and proponent of greater research into long-range weather prediction.

"What the computers have done is aid those inexperienced forecastees by giving them information that used to take the experts of 20 or 30 years ago hours to derive from studying and drawing the various maps," he said.

ALTHOUGH TODAY'S forecaster gets computer help, Willett says meteorologists have a serious deficiency.

"They lack imagination," he said.

Reliance on short-range computer-generated forecasts limits the forecasters' predictions, Willett said.

And although the short-range forecasts have improved, Willett said, they have not improved markedly more than the work of the best forecasters of 20 years ago. They predicted the weather without computers.

AND FOR forecasts three months ahead, accuracy is only slighly better than chance.

"There is a definite need to study long-range climatological theories," including theories that solar activity affects long range weather patterns, Willett said.

Donald Gilman, chief of the Extended Forecast Center of the National Weather Service in Washington, says most federal funds go to short-term forecasting.

"It takes a great deal of money just in computer time to generate one monthly forecast," Gilman said. It costs more than $160,000 in computer time alone for a long range forecast.

Computer equipment takes so much space, Gilman said, "that the meteorologists have been crowded out of the building and we are now located in a separate building three miles away."

Each Christmas the grown-up Clantons created chaos.

They played with the electric trains, the toy trucks, the balls and the bats. You name it.

Last Christmas, Grandma Clanton saved the day. She put EarlyTimes under the tree.

EarlyTimes.

In the Clanton clan, it's the gift that separates the men... from the toys.

Space people colonized earth, created man: scholar

NEW YORK (UPI) — For thousands of years priests, poets and scientists have puzzled over the origins of life and the creation of man. Now, a scholarly financier has come forth in support of a theory that Earth was first colonized by superior beings from another planet who created man in their own image.

Zecharia Sitchin, a Russian-born linguist, author and successful corporation executive, says ancient writings prove god-like beings arrived from anther planet 450,000 years ago, mainly in search of gold for their advanced electronic systems.

Settling in Mesopotamia and southeast Africa for some 300,000 years, Sitchin says, these aliens created and bred homo sapiens through artificial insemination to be their slaves in the mines.

ALAS, THE god-like beings eventually were corrupted by their comely slave maidens, outnumbered by the more-prolific male homo sapiens, and finally fled in their spaceships without warning their creations that a great flood was coming from the Polar caps.

Zecharia Sitchin is a businessman, who heads a group of 11 companies led by Intercontinental Trailsea Corp. which is engaged in a variety of services to world trade.

The subsidiaries include United Cargo, a common carrier that is one of the originators of the land bridge concept, ITC Commercial Credit Card, Inc., International Book Service, Inc., ITC Properties Corp., Pacific Coast Customs Brokerage Co. and Optimal Computer Service. The group operates warehouses, trailers, containers and brokerage and financial services.

BUT SITCHIN also is a recognized scholar.

Born in Russia, he was reared in Palestine and came to New York in the 1950s. He reads many languages, including the ancient languages of the New East, and is a recognized scholar in the literary and archaeological lore of the Sumerian, Chaldean, Akkadian and Babylonian civilizations.

Unlike Erich von Daniken, who wrote "Chariots of the Gods," and Alan and Sally Lansburg and similar writers in the field, Sitchin attempts to answer all the questions he poses in his forthcoming book, "The Twelfth Planet," (Stein & Day, New York).

HIS BOOK is founded mainly on translations of thousands of cuneiform writings on clay tablets and drawings and sculptures unearthed in the Middle East in the past century. He interprets these in the light of modern scientific knowledge, using the Hebrew Old Testament as the anchor around which to develop his narrative.

The book already has received favorable advance reviews from the publishing trade press, particularly for its heavyweight scholarship.

"It is the fruit of 30 years of study and even longer reflection," Sitchin said.

"AS A SCHOOLBOY in Israel, I was dissatisfied because my teachers wanted me to take passages from the Bible simply on authority and not ask for rational explanations of them." Sitchin said he began systematic work on the book when he came to the United States 15 years ago.

He says he knows exactly when god-like men he calls the "nefilim" came to earth, where they came from, why they left and where their descendants are now. They are back home, far out in space on the twelfth planet, Marduk, which is unknown to modern man although its existence has been postulated by mathematics.

Sitchin says Marduk girdles the sun in a bizarre elliptical orbit that takes 3,600 years to traverse.

THE NAME NEFILIM is taken from the book of Genesis. In some languages it translates to mean giants, but the ancient Hebrew word means those who descended from heaven.

Like other scholars and scientists, Sitchin was troubled for years, not only by apparent discrepancies in the Bible and the scriptures of other ancient peoples, but by impossible contradictions between the workings of Darwinian evolution and the observed history of life on earth. The inexplicable sudden appearance of homo sapiens in the shape of Cro-Magnon man some 1.8 million years cannot be explained scientifically, he says.

"The answer," he says, "is that life did not evolve naturally on earth; it was brought here from elsewhere, the result of a mighty collision in space from which earth was born.

AND HOMO SAPIENS did not evolve naturally from the apemen who preceded them by several million years Homo sapiens, he says, were created whole and in the image of his god as the Old Testament tells us. But the god was not one being, but rather a race of men who came here in small numbers from the twelfth planet.

Why did the nefilim come to earth? They came for gold, the financier says.

Sitchin theorizes that the nefilim on Marduk had developed an advanced electronic civilization which required metals that are highly electro-conductive as well as metals that are light and heat resistant. It was the electro-conductive gold that lured them to southeast Africa.

THEY LANDED in Mesopotamia, he says, because it was the best place to land on earth nearly half a million years ago, in the middle of an ice age. Also, it was an ideal place to maintain permanent bases.

Their spaceships were capable of carrying crews of 50 to 100 for distances that would make Vikings's recent trip to Mars look like a morning's dinghy sail on a bay.

These spaceships, which could take off and land in Mesopotamia, probably were serviced by larger craft circling the earth in the asteroid belt.

SITCHIN SAYS Sumerian pictographs show nefilim spaceships and astronauts and that what he has discovered was already known as well by the Akkadians and Babylonians who followed them.

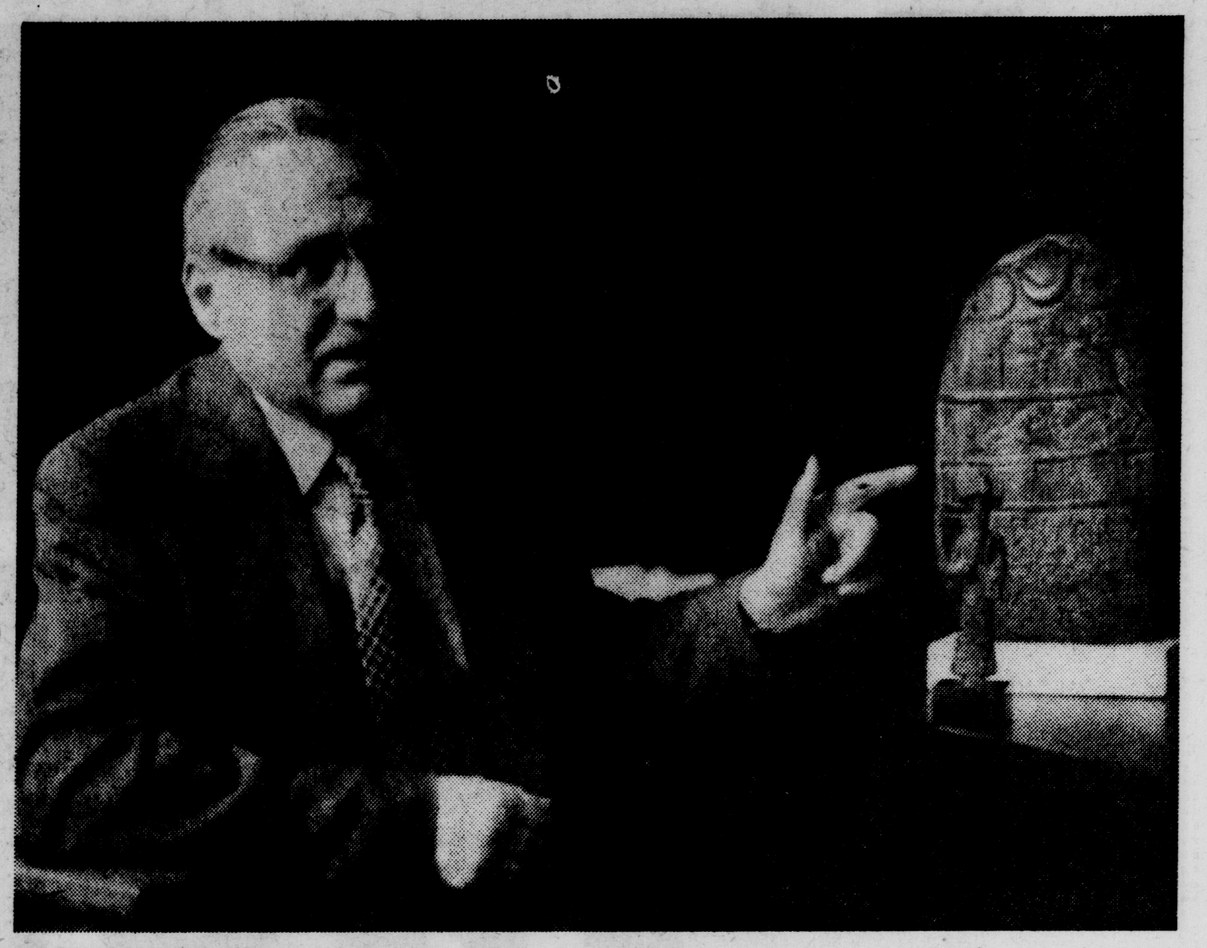
In fact, he says, the literature of all ancient peoples (who left any at all) tells of a time in the remote past when the earth was ruled by a race of god-like men who came down from heaven and were immortal.

Sitchin explains that life on our planet is scaled from the year, the time it takes the earth to orbit the sun. So it was with the nefilim. But since it took Marduk 3,600 earth years to make its orbit of the sun, their year was 3,600 years, earth time.

THUS, SITCHIN says, ancient legends ascribe incredible life spans to the rulers of the earth before the deluge. Single god-kings were described by the Sumerians as having reigned on earth for almost 40,000 years.

Sitchin finds nothing remarkable in this. "A cockroach would consider me immortal," he said drily.

Sitchin says the nefilim began mining gold, but found it exhausting toil even for god-like workers. After many thousands of years of this toil the rank and file revolted. The rulers then hit on the idea of creating homo sapiens to work the mines.



FINANCIER AND SCHOLAR Zecharia Sitchin has come forth with an astounding theory to explain how life began on Earth. He thinks the planet was colonized by superior beings from another planet 450,000 years ago and created Homo Sapiens in their own image. Here Sitchin points to Sumerian God of Mining and Science. Behind this a Babylonian boundary stone.

THE AUTHOR SAYS it probably was done by artificial insemination of female ape-men. Scientific cloning helped yield reproductions similar in stature and appearance to the nefilim.

The first artificially-created men probably were neuter hybrids like mules, incapable of reproducing themselves, Sitchin says. The nefilim intended it that way. Then to their horror, man soon developed the ability to procreate.

Sitchin finds in this a practical explanation of the Biblical story of Adam and Eve and the serpent in the garden of Eden. Once man learned to procreate, he began to outnumber his creators and begin closing the gap between his abilities and theirs.

BECAUSE OF this genetic descent from the nefilim, Sitchin finds it quite credible that early homo sapiens had a very long life span. Thus the Biblical story of how Methusaleh lived more than 900 years becomes more believable.

Alas, according to Sumerian legends, the daughters of men were comely and of easy virtue, a circumstance which bode ill for the nefilim. They were corrupted by the maidens of the intelligent slave rave they had created and began to interbreed with them. The god-like people began to degenerate.

So the nefilim then determined to destroy man as the Bible says God determined to destroy man.

FIRST THEY tried starvation and other cruelties. But they found man had a great tenacity for life and was quite prolific.

Then nefilim scientists discovered that in a few years there would be a collapse of great ice floes at the Polar caps, causing a flood which would cover much of the earth. This was their chance.

They did not tell their slaves about the coming floods and when the waters began to rise, the nefilim took to their space ships and fled to the asteroid belt, leaving mankind to perish.

BUT MAN survived.

Sitchin believes some of the nefilim returned to earth after the deluge but were not able to reestablish the rule they had held for 300,000 years. He also said that the last time the twelfth planet came close enough to earth for a landing coincided with the mysterious development of high civilizations in Central America.

When will Marduk again come that close?

In about 1,500 years.

Celts were first Yankee settlers, new theory says

NORTH SALEM, N.Y. (UPI) — Barry Fell's theory: Before Columbus, before the Vikings and perhaps 500 years before Christ parts of North America were settled by Celts from Portugal.

They clustered in Vermont, New Hampshire, Connecticut and New York's Hudson Valley. They built rude stone chambers that combined religious ceremony with accurate sun-sightings.

They worshipped the sun.

And they became — or married into — the Algonquin Indian tribe.

Fell, a Harvard zoologist, specialist in ocean currents and epigraphs, one who studies ancient inscriptions, bases his theory on the discovery of these dank, rectangular or beehive-shaped structures.

OFTEN OVERGROWN and hidden by trees, they are still around the mountainous New England countryside.

People store preserves in them. Hikers take shelter in the mound-like structures. What appear to be monuments are near some of them.

Fell calls the discoveries the "first skeleton of an American ancient history." He bases most of his findings on inscriptions found in the mounds. But he recently said the dating is tentative.

"It's guesswork," he said in a telephone interview from Cambridge, Mass. "I'm not going to stand firm on those dates.

Fell said he first thought the settlers dispersed and joined native American tribes when the colonies lost touch with Europe after Rome fell, about 480 A.D. He now thinks there may have been contact up through, say 1492, because of what he terms an Arabic script called Kufi, inscribed on stones in Texas. He dates it at 1200 A.D.

"IN EUROPE we know the sequence of how the word symbols changed, but in America they were isolated. Old characters and manners of writing that went out of style in North Europe and Spain stayed on in America.

"In some areas, they were still using the old system when Columbus arrived."

In his book "America B.C." (Quadrangle, November), Fell dates the Celtic-Iberian arrival at 500 B.C.

"In my sequel I'll have to propose later dates for everything," he said. "On the other hand, the archeologists want to push them back to 2000 B.C., based on the similarity of architectural styles to the European structures.

"They could have been built before there was writing."

John Williams, 26, an amateur archeologist, took part in a dig last year on Mystery Hill in North Salem, N.H., where Fell and some colleagues examined a dolmen — a boulder laid across five upright stones near a group of beehive chambers about seven feet high and 10 feet wide.

Williams returned to his job as a high school English and history teacher in Danbury, Conn., and began to wonder about a nearby landmark that reminded him of the New Hampshire site.

IN NEW YORK'S North Salem, amid rolling hills just across the Connecticut border, lies "Balanced Rock," a 90-ton boulder that rests on three stones. A sign, planted at the rock by the North Salem Historical Society, says "Glacial Era," but Williams doubts it.

"In Europe there are thousands of this sort of construction, and underneath many are burial sites," he said.

"The caves are built in proximity to the dolmens, Celtic memorials to the dead, and there are 15 of them within two miles of here. There are 60 chambers of this type around the area. The center of the colony is 10 miles north of here at Lake Carmel, N.Y."

Fell theorizes Iberian Celtics left North Africa or what is now Portugal, followed the Canary Island currents and landed near the Carolinas.

"We're on the same latitude as Spain and Portugal, and some inscriptions have been found in Georgia," Williams said while driving past structures, modified with doors, now used to hold garden equipment or insecticides. Most people assume they were built by Yankee farmers.

"You only find them in pockets," Williams said. "Sixty at Lake Carmel, 25 in New Hampshire. This is the furthest extension of the colonies in the area."

BALANCED ROCK on route 116 in North Salem, N.Y. has been the object of speculation since the area was settled. John Williams, teacher and researcher, theorizes it is a memorial to Druid priests constructed by Celts who he says inhabited the area.

WILLIAMS NAMED three indications of the Celtic origin: the architecture — an overlapping stone technique; the orientation to the sun, and the Celtic script.

"They usually built them high on hilltops," Williams said. "Sun worshipers."

He took a reporter to a cave in Ridgefield, Conn., he believes was designed to catch the first rays of sun on the Spring equinox, March 21.

"On that day, I observed the sunrise from inside the chamber. It was probably off by a couple of degrees, but the sun cast a light on a triangular niche on the back of the interior wall."

The Celts started the new year on May 1, 35 days after the equinox, "They used March 25," he said.

The inscriptions? Williams, citing Fell, says they are Ogam, a form of stone engraving invented by Phoenicians and used by ancient Celts. Ogam involves a horizontal line with vertical scratches above and below. "Not a language," Fell has noted, just as Roman letters are a form of writing used in different languages.

JUST SOUTH of the equinox-catching cave, Williams stopped on a dirt road, climbed up a small embankment and tapped a brush on tinfoil spread over a stone set in a wall.

"The stones were often moved and used to make those New England stone walls, and here's an example." He climbed down, leaned on the car and examined the foil.

The inscription on the stone was upside down, he said. A natural ridge on the rock was used as a horizontal line, and vertical lines carved above and below the ridge showed as clear trails in the otherwise pleated foil.

To an untutored eye, the lines on the stone itself, with white discoloration in the grooves, were not too distinct. Williams said they were carefully carved and straight; the carved angle and the depth showed that a sharp instrument was used.

He deciphered the inscription, letter by letter: "To the Sun God Bel."

Some archeologists have noticed the structures. A Finn, Vilhaljmur Steffansson, speculated 45 years ago they were of Viking origin, then considered the Phoenicians. But most American archeologists do not think much of Fell's theories, even if they know of them.

Fell returns the compliment, mocking specialists "who don't know Latin or Greek and deny that it's writing.

"In fact, I've caught them out," he said. "Took part of a cast of a stone with a Phoenician inscription from Sardinia and put it with other stones. They pick them up, turn them upside down, every which way and say, 'root markings.' An American tree wrote in Pumic on that stone."

Fell, 59, is a British native who came to the U.S. from New Zealand. He prefers to deal with European archeologists. "I don't try to convince these old fossilized guys over here."
